FOR NEXT GOVERNOR OF PENNSYLVANIA

ADJT. GEN. D. H. HASTINGS,

Subject to the decision of the Republican State Convention

EDITORIAL BRIEFS

MISSISSIPPI is doing better. It hanged a white man on Wednesday for murdering a negro.

ON the 5th day of April Senator Edmunds will have served twenty-four consecutive years in the Senate.

THE joint committee of the House and Senate to investigate the immigration question has gone to New York.

THE King of Siam sends six of his brightest young men to be educated in this country. These chaps from the Orient want to keep away from New York.

THE democrats of the House committee on Territories have made a minority report against the bill for the admisson of Wyoming as a state. The bill will be passed just the same as if they had not made it.

IT is very evident from the tone of the Meadville Tribune Republican of last week that, although it thinks as much of Senator Delamater as ever, its belief in his chances for the nomination has very greatly decreased.

THE Three America's Congress have passed a resolution favoring the subsidizing of one or more lines of steamship between San Francisco and Valparaiso, and also recommending Government aid to a company to lay a cable connecting San Francisco with all the principal ports in Central and South America.

THE Rev. Gideon H. Day, who has preached for fifty years, closed his active work at the Central Pennsylvania M. E. Conference Friday in Carlisle without a dollar in his pocket. But the Lord, through philanthropic persons, will not see a man who has given his active life in Christian work come to want.

THE House has passed the regular annual pension appropriation bill. It carries $98,500,000. In the discussion on the bill it was evident that the republican members are in favor of a service pension: Several of the speeches were very strong arguments in favor of such a measure, and they were received with great applause on the republican side of the House.

THE Senate committee on appropriations has reported favorably the House joint resolution authorizing the appointment of thirty medical examiners for the Pension office. This resolution, which has already passed the House, was offered because Gen. Raum, the Commissioner of Pensions, stated that he could not secure satisfactory examiners through the Civil Service Commissioners.

WE have always given the editor of the Watchman credit with possessing considerable fore-sight, reasoning and powers of intuition, but after reading the first article in third column on fourth page of last week's paper entitled, "A Mystery Explained", we have come to the conclusion that there is one more weak minded, giddy-headed editor in the world than we thought there was.

HAVING imported a lot of mummified Egyptian cats for fertilizing purposes an English firm is now turning its attention toward the vast numbers of embalmed crocodiles that rest in certain portions of Egypt beneath the soil. When the old Egyptians are carefully embalmed and laid away the cats and crocodiles ttha they regarded as peculiarly sacred animals they little thought to what strange uses their pets would eventually come.

THE Post Office Gazette need not give itself any concern as to the morals or the Republicanism of this journal or of the Bellefonte Republican. The latter was Republican before the Gazette was born and will be when the latter has departed its political existence. When the actions of the Republicans in Congress comes to be taken on Wanamaker statesmanship the public and our readers will see that the Bellefonte Republican represents and has represented distinctly the views of the party, and that without being subsidized with public office.

BRIDGES AND STATE TAX.

The attempt of the Watchman last week to verify its assertions of the week previous and to prove the lie on the explanation given in this paper last week was a most obtuse and lame affair all through. Just because the REPUBLICAN didn't go into the detail of figures the Watchman, notwithstanding the fact that its editor knows better, comes out in almost a column article composed entirely of assertions and braggdocio, and charges that the financial statement is not correct, and that "items of indebtedness have been suppressed in order to make the balance in the treasury appear large." Nothing could be more absurd and farther from the truth than the above, and,coming from a man of the intelligence and legislative experience, a man possessed with as much knowledge of the administration of the finances of Centre county as our brother across by the creek, it is plainly evident to even the most casual and indifferent that his side of the argument is only made for political effect and not because he knows or even believes it to be true.

In the first place the REPUBLICAN did not admit that the cost of erecting the Karthaus and Howard bridges was not included in the statement; we only said that such an amount of the contracted indebtedness for the erection of said bridges "for which no bills had been rendered" was not included in the statement. If our neighbor refers to the statement he will find an item of $864.39 for the Howard bridge and an item of $4498.28 for the Karthaus bridge. The above are the only items that it was possible to put into the statement because they were the only items on record. As to entering items into the liabilities further than the legitimate items for which bills have been rendered and entered on the books of the county, would be a proceding unheard of and untaught in any school of business; and further there is no custom or precedence in the administration of the county's affairs during the past ten years to demand or even suggest such a procedure.

If the Watchman editor will refer to the statements of that period he will there find in "Bridge Account" items entered for the exact amount of money expended up to the time the statement was put out, and no mention in the liabilities of the "contracted indebtedness" for the completion of work on such bridges, notwithstanding the fact that said items entered were only on account and that in the succeding statement would be found items amounting to thousands of dollars for the completion of the very same bridges. And this was under democratic rule, when "Pap" Griest managed the affairs of Centre county "so successfully." Such action as our neighbor presents has no precedence, is not customary and neither advised nor taught by any school of bookkeeping in the United States.

The balance of $23100.47, as given on the statement, was the true and correct balance in the treasury at that time, and what the balance is six weeks or two months after the statement goes out has nothing whatever to do with the authenticity of the accredited balance on the face of the statement, which can be verified by the papers and books in the treasurer's and commissioners' offices, and the balance in favor of the tax payer is not less by one penny than the balance as above stated.

As to the State tax we must again assert our explanation of last week only this week we will be a little more explicit and go into detail—giving figures and facts. It may not be generally known by the public at large, but the Watchman certainly does know it or else it is more ignorant than we supposed, that the accounts between county and State are not audited by the county auditors only in so far as they directly conflict with county finances. The State tax account is audited and settled between the commissioners and treasurer of a county and the State board of revenue officers,and the settlement of these accounts is not made until about the first of March of every year, so that when the county statement goes out the State tax account is an open account on which no balance can be struck, hence it is impossible to enter a full showing in the statement. However, be that as it may, we do not ask the Watchman to accept the above as the only explanation but we respectfully call attention to the following figures:

The amount of State tax levied, not collected, for 1889, was $9126.32 Uncollected $3387.89, leaving a balance of $5738.43. There was paid to the State, treasurer's commission and extra clerk hire on account of State tax $3607.24. This would leave a balance of $2131.19 yet to account for. In addition to the above payments on account of State tax are the following which does not appear on the statement simply because the statement is a statement of the "Receipts and expenditures of Centre county" and not the receipts and expenditures of the State, even in Centre county:

Abatements on acct. of State tax	$293.64
Commissions for collecting same	243. 65
Assessors pay making assessment	653,00
Exonerations on acct. of State tax	791,86
Total	$1982.15:

Take $1982.15 from the $2131.19 as above given and you will find a balance of $149.04, which last and final balance is now in the treasury of Centre county and stands on the books of that office to the credit of the State of Pennsylvania, and which amount can be had whenever the State wants it.

If the Watchman editor will take the rouble to look up the State tax account in the financial statement of 1886, the first under the present law for assessing State tax, he will there find a levy of $9764.05. Amount paid out to the State and for expenses on account of State tax $6137.48, leaving a balance of $3226.57. Of this amount $2495.84 was given as uncollected which still left a balance of $730.73. What was done with that? Who got it? Was it used for campaign purposes? Did some rascally politician borrow it and forget to pay it back? What did become of it anyway?

WHO CAN TELL????

And this under the exemplary (?) democratic rule that the Watchman is apparently so proud of. The REPUBLICAN, however, does not blame the democratic board of commissioners of 1886 with pilfering that $730.73 or in any other way illegally disposing of it, simply because there is no showing of it made in the county statement, for the reason that we know that it is only optional with the commissioners as to whether any of it is mentioned or not. Indeed, if you go back six or eight years you will find that the levy was the only thing mentioned and there was no account of what was done with any of it.

It does not require a very long head to see that the charges of the Watchman are as shallow and groundless as the head of its editor is cunning and devising. But it is no go. The records are open to the inspection of every tax payer and anyone who will take the trouble to go and examine them will go away fully convinced of their correctness. And now,as last week, we say to the tax payer, don't allow yourself to be fooled by any hobknobbery of an argument, such as the democratic papers in this county have been in the habit of producing, but take the facts and figures as above given and think and act for yourself.

The statement is all right.

WE RECEIVED NO PAY FOR THEM.

When an editor of a paper is prevented from speaking,through the columns of his journal, his true thought and convictions regarding the actions of a public official, simply because said editor is eating corn out of the public crib over which said public official presides, he would be in better business trying to defend his financial "Pap" in his official actions, than in criticising another journal that has the courage to speak the truth, And further, it is bad taste to charge lack of true republicanism for no other reason than the fact that the journal accused had the backbone to criticise the actions of one republican official, and in which criticisms it only voiced the sentiments of the majority of the administration. It would have been better for the editor of the up town sheet, if he felt called upon to say something in defence of MR. Wanamaker, to have said something in his defsnce and not comeout and chargethispaper with lack of proper respect and consideration in the defence of republican officials. Had he done that his mission would have been far greater and his purpose might have been accomplished. But then it is hard for an editor to uphold the man against whom are his sympathies and his belief even if he is a pensioner on his pay roll.

As to the REPUBLICAN and DAILY NEWS publishing articles for a financial consideration, we have only to say that persons should not be so hasty in judging others by themselves, and we would respectfully inform our brother editor that the only space in the DAILY NEWS and BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN that ever was or can be bought is in the advertising columns.

THE NEW TARIFF.

No act is likely to be passed by Congress which will directly affect the well-being of so great a number of citizens as will be affected by the new Tariff bill. The full text of the bill, as prepared by the Republican members of the House Committee on Ways and Means, is therefore printed to-day, that the public may judge of its nature, and individuals in various occupations, may consider its bearing upon their interests. In comments upon decisions reached in committee from time to time, many of its features have been considered, but the bill in complete form can now be examined.

The object of this measure is to afford fuller and surer employment for American labor. It is not a bill framed upon the theory that the laborer of this country ought to live no better, enjoy no more comforts, and receive no higher wages, than the laborers of other countries which offer their products in competition with this. It is therefore not expected to suit Messrs. Cleveland and Mills, the so-called Tariff Reformers, or the Free Traders. It does not rest upon the notion that progress toward civilization consists in cutting down expenses, and getting everything as cheap as possible. Its ruling idea is that American labor ought to be fully employed, and at all wages, and that if there are idle American laborers, and goods imported in great quantity which they can produce, it is a wise thing to set those laborers at work producing in this country the goods thus imported. Wherever an industry has been depressed, and part of its workers thrown out of employment, by excessive foreign competition, it is the aim of this bill to give those workers a fair chance to earn a living. English free trade sends them to the poorhouse. American protection sends them to the workshops.

In the light of this deliberate purpose, which was that of the millions whose votes elected President Harrison and the Republican majority in Congress, the bill printed to-day will be found consistent, intelligent and courageous. It frankly proposes higher duties on foreign importations where it has been made clear that American labor has has been thrown out of work by reason of such importations. It strengthens the defence of American labor in wool-growing and in agriculture, in wool manufacturing and in branches of the iron manufacture, in the production of some chemicals,some forms of earthen and glass ware, and the manufacture of flax. At the same time, it will be seen that the bill reduces the duties on a great number of articles, in some cases because it is found that the existing protection is more than adequate, in some because the prospect of developing a home industry is not clear,and in some because combinations of producers to deprive American labor and American consumers of the benefits of protection have deprived them of the right to further defence.

In the aggregate, it is estimated, this will cut off sixty millions of revenue, or about a dollar for every inhabitant. If reduction of duties were the only or the chief thing to be sought, this would be a strong recommendation. But it is far more important, in the estimation of intelligent advocates of the protective policy, that the measure offers to supply ample and well-paid employment to many thousand Americans, in the production of important articles which are now wholly or largely imported.—New York Tribune.

A SEASONABLE THOUGHT.

The Bellefonte Republican says: "We haven't much respect for any Republican who attempts to further the interest of his favorite candidate for governor by downright lying about the other candidates and their friends."

No doubt the same idea has occurred to others, as it has to us, after reading recent editorials in the columns of the journal from which the above paragraph was taken. As a rule the gubernatorial canvass has been admirably conducted by the Republican newspapers of the commonwealth—the majority recognizes the proprieties of the occasion and the necessity of keeping in line ready to warmly support the choice of the convention. To disagree, before the convention, in the choice of candidates is perfectly legitimate, and further, no reasonable person can object to the practice of all lawful methods by the friends and partisans of any candidate to advance the interests of him whose cause they are championing. The unfairness comes in when the friends of A assume to be the real and only Jacobs and supplement their assumption by the ridiculous claim that only their particular friend represents all those qualities that the people love and admire. In short, the egotism of some journalists in the commonwealth passeth all understanding since they would have the world believe that they, and they alone, are the true advocates of the rights and liberties of the people and in true pharisaical style they discant loud and long upon the virtues of themselves and friends, and thank the good Lord they are not as other men are. They forget that in their zeal to criticise their opponents they are questioning the intelligence of their readers and gratuitously insulting the Republican host of Pennsylvania. Their cries, however, will prove of little avail; the procession is moving and the people can be safely trusted for the present, at least to exercise their own judgment without the aid or advice of their self opinionated, egotistical and supremely selfish critics. As for ourselves we believe the interests of the commonwealth will be served by the promotion of Senator George Wallace Delamater to the governorship, but if the people of Pennsylvania think differently we will labor just as hard, just as earnestly, just as faithfully and just as warm heartedly for the choice of the convention as we would had the decision been in our favor. In short, The TRIBUNE has its choice; it proposes to exert its right of speech, but in advocating its preference it concedes, without reserve, the same right and privilege to those who think otherwise. We are all Republicans, bound upon the same errand and this fact will not be lost sight of, nor forgotten by those possessing enough of the salts of fairness in their composition to be classed with the ever loyal and deserving Republicans—of the great Republican commonwealth of Pennsylvania.—Meadville Tribune—Republican.

The above is truly republican and portrays a feeling for party success far stronger than any personal alliance. In every respect are we with our brother editor of the Tribune-Republican only that now we are for General Hastings, just as strongly as he is for Senator Delamater.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH UNDER GOVERNMENT CONTROL.

The subject of a postal telegraph under Government control has, in the past twenty years, been brought frequently to the attention of Congress, and not infrequently to the attention of political parties in convention assembled. Both political parties have steadily refused to endorse or to stand sponsor for the project, and three times within recent years, after thorough investigation and upon the full hearing of expert testimony, committees of the U. S. Senate have rejected the project.

We have not thus far discussed the subject; our animadversions have been of a cabinet minister who, with more zeal than knowledge, has sought to commit a great political party, without its sanction, to a project freighted with doubtful expediency and serious political dangers. The project is at present urged upon Congress by the P. M. G. officially and personally—without commendation of the President—and promoted by speculators, lobbyists, patent right vendors, and failures in telegraph management.

The experience of the British Government thus far, with postal telegraphy, shows conclusively an annual loss to the Government, and the further certain fact that it cannot be as economically managed as in private hands. Only fifteen in every hundred of our citizens make use of the telegraph—shall the remainder be taxed for these? Are the whole people ready to hand over to either political party the appointments of officers, operators, experts, linemen, and messenger boys of a great telegraph system for our vast country? If to these inquiries we are all agreed then the times are propitious for the acquisition of all the systems and companies now in existence within our country—all are required and necessary. These could be acquired by condemnation for public use or by private purchase. A new bond of the government having, say fifty years to mature, with the privilege of use for banking purposes could, at this time, be sold at par bearing 2 per cent. annual interest.

If,with the proceeds of a sufficient issue of such bonds, purchase and payment of all the telegraph lines is made,and these shall yield, in the hands of the Government, as they do now under private management some 6 per cent, the matter as a business proposition, might seem quite inviting and justifiable; we however, by reasons of the wrongs and dangers the system in the hands of the government must entail, stand opposed to the scheme.

HASTINGS' CHANCES GROWING BETTER.

Day by day it becomes more plainly evident that General Hastings is the man the people want to be the next nominee on the Republican ticket for Governor. Circumstances that have sprung up in the past few weeks, and which are now being daily presented to a thinking and knowing people, are doubly convincing—even to the friends and supporters of other candidates for the nomination—that the man to be put in nomination at the Convention next June must be a man on whom all the elements of the Republican party can, without one exception, unite.

The recent declaration of the Grange organization of farmers as well as the present attitude of the G. A. R., renders it absolutely imperative that all party feeling of favoritism by the party leaders for any one particular man must be laid aside, buried out of sight in behalf of the urgent necessity of giving due and proper consideration to the public needs and the public demands that their interest be considered as identical with that of the leaders. The latter represent the few while the former represent the masses. The latter can make the nomination while the former will do the electing. If the latter, in the convention, give due consideration to the placing in nomination of a man whose past record and present sympathies have been and are now identified with the former, then the result of the election of the coming fall is already assured and we predict for the Republican nominee a majority of at least fifty thousand. Put in nomination a man whose past official labor has been in the interest of self and monopoly and whose present attitude is apparently identical, and at most uncertain, and the result of next fall's election is not very promising let alone assured.

The majority of the population of Pennsylvania read and think for themselves. When a nominee of any political party is presented for their suffrage, they invariably know whether he is deserving or not. Party prejudice is still as strong as ever, but it is an undeniable fact that there is a growing feeling against bossism and the countenancing of bossism by supporting and voting for a man who has been put at the head of the ticket through the machinations of political party leaders, and whom the voter knows will not consult the interest of the public at large were he elected. To place in nomination such a man might mean a disastrous defeat to the Republican ticket.

The one thing to do then is to select that man that will command the full and undivided support of the Republican party—as individuals and as a party. Recent developments prove more conclusively than ever that of all Republicans now in the field none will so fully satisfy the demands and needs of the people as will General Hastings. There is not an organization in the State that would not readily and willingly second and endorse his nomination. There is not a faction or an organization in the State that has or can present one thing against him. His position is unquestioned, his sympathies are undeniable. The sentiment in his favor grows stronger all the time and as it grows stronger the urgent necessity for his nomination becomes more apparent.

All over the State party leaders are now coming out for Hastings. Men who have all along supported others are deserting their men and joining the Hastings' boom. Editors of newspapers who support other men in their columns are now convinced that Hastings should be the nominee and they are quietly doing all they can for him. These are no idle assertions but facts personally told to the editor of this paper by such men as above referred to. Naturally, we have a personal feeling for the General, but yet we would not sacrifice the interests of the party to personal feeling did we not know that our candidate is the best man presented for the nomination, which is saying a great deal, as there are some good men in the field and that,if nominated, he would be elected by not less than seventy-five thousand majority.

IF IT hadn't been for New York's previous experience with Tammany officials the recent revelations would have excited the public far more than they have done. As it is, the people, though indignant, are not particularly surprised. They know Tammany of old. Leopards don't change their spots to any great extent in the jungle of modern politics.

GRANGERS AND G. A. R. VS. DELAMATER.

From the Lock Haven DEMOCRAT.

Clinton county Grangers, and in fact the Grangers generally, are not at all fond of Mr. Senator Delamater, Quay's candidate for Governor, and in fact have taken their stand against him. They claim that he defeated the Tax Equalization bill last winter, which was a favorite measure of their organization, which is especially strong in this State. The bill was a most important one and had been thoroughly canvassed, talked about and agreed to by the farmers all over the State, who were extremely anxious to have it passed. The Grangers endorsed it and the whole agricultural interest was eager to have the bill enacted into a law. Yet all these anxious, hopeful expectations were dashed to the ground by Senator Delamater, who was, is and will continue to be in the interest of the corporations. Through him they smothered the bill and thus disappointed the anticipations of the entire farmer community of the State. Delamater, we believe, now claims that the bill was introduced and sent to a conference committee, which was not named. We now quote as follows;

"A few days later members were surprised to find on their desks a printed report from the conference committee, signed with the names of three members from each House. The conference report was of course what the corporations wanted, but not what the the farmers desired in the equalization of takes. The Grangers now claim that the bill never went to any conference committee, and that no such committe was appointed. They claim that Mr. Delamater hired a lawyer in Pittsburg to write the report, and affixed the names of the alleged committee to the report. Colonel Robert Thomas, who is at the head of the Order in this State, says that the farmers, to a man, will be against Delamater. He claims that in one county he has the names of 1,600 Republican farmers who have pledged themselves to ote and work against Delamater."

We hope our Republican friends here in Clinton county, will not allow themselves to be led around by the nose by this man Quay, who would like to get the delegates here, which naturally belong to General Hastings, for Delamater, the creature of the coporations, who has been the enemy of the grangers and farmers, although he would now like to make matters look differently. Andrews, the chairman of the Republican party, is endeavoring to force the nomination of Delamater by the expenditure of money, large sums of which, it is said, have already been disbursed for the purpose of buying up delegates for the special Quay candidate. These tactics are in accordance with the Quay mode of doing things, which has become notorious for its corruption and disregard of all honorable principles.

The G. A. R. likewise is incensed and justly against Delamater. In Meadville the latter was serenaded at his home on the occasion of his triumph over the "red-headed and hopeful Cooper," which resulted in the election of Andrews as State Chairman. At that time Mr. Delamater insulted the old soldiers took a back seat and gave the young men a chance."

The friends of General Osborne and Major Montooth, both candidates for the Republican nomination and both good old soldiers, are circulating copies of this speech throughout every G. A. R. Post in the State and it is likely to have great effect. Delamater is being fought by the anti-Standard Oil Company people, by the grangers and there is a general revolt against Quay and bossism among the honest portion of the Republican party. It isn't our funeral specially, but we should like to see the honest masses triumphant even in the Republican party, as that would be in the interest of public virtue and morality. Down the candidate of the corrupt Republican boss.

'An Ocular Delusion' is the title of a bright social study in serial shape, which will begin in the New York LEDGER of March 1. The story holds the mirror up to club life in the metropolis, and touches lightly but with the masterly and suggestive stroke of the etching hand, some of the more distinctive sides of New York society life. Several of the characters are so startlingly typical that they may be taken for any one of scores of the members of the 'Four Hundred." The hero is a fine combination of manliness, ready ingenuity and audacity, a youth with a rare amount of phosphorus in his cerebral gray matter and an equally generous amount of red corpuscles in his veins—a character which the author has elaborated with sympathetic interest, and which, according to the impression given by the advance sheets, represents an oarsman or a recent crew of a leading American college. The author, by the way, is that brilliant young newspaper worker, FRANK HOWARD HOWE, son of the late postmaster general, TIMOTHY F HOWE, of Wisconsin.

A Case of "Mistaken Identity"

Our popular young townsman, Joseph Reilly, Esq., was present at Bellefonte court yesterday morning in the capacity of a juryman in response to a recent subpoena, but through his attorney, J. C. Meyer, Esq., made applications for release from service on the grounds of "mistaken identity," the said Joseph Reilly who was selected as a juror being down on the list as a laborer. The court considering his superior qualifications to unravel the intricacies of law, said,

"Oh! dear no,
Not for Joe,
Not if I know it;
Oh! dear, no,

and concluded to retain him. Joseph, therefore, had the honor of serving his country as a juror on one or two cases during the day.—Philipsburg Journal.

"No, Hiram," said the young girl sadly; "I cannot be your wife. We are too compatible."

"Compatible!" he exclaimed. "Isn't that the very reason why——"

"Not in our case. I should probably insist from motives of economy on dispensing with a servant and doing my own house-work, and you would probably let me do it Hiram."

Benny—"Mr. Sloat, will you give your daughter to me in marriage?"

Mr. Sloat—"Well, well! I see that you don't know my daughter as yet."

Benny (astonished)—"Wh—what do you mean, sir?"

Mr. Sloat—"If you had been thoroughly acquainted with her you would have said: "Will you give me to your daughter in marriage?"

Little Girl—"Papa, did mamma say "yes" to you right off when you asked her to marry you?"

Papa—"Certainly she did."

Little Girl—"Why don't she say 'yes' now just as quick when you ask her to do things?"

Papa—"Mamma's hearing is not so good now, darling—that's all."

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

MATERIALS, SILKS; WRAPS; ANSWERS.

Contrasts in color and different textures in the same material, are two ideas that enlist the attention of the fashionable world. Borderings on wool goods become more varied and fanciful as the reason advances, and in the leading style known as the mi jupe or half skirt, a floral or striped design, as the case may be, takes up one half the width of material forty-eight inches wide, leaving the other half plain. One variety shows on a delicately tinted ground a cluster of narrow, graduated, satin finished stripes at the edge, then a white border a foot deep, checked with a narrow stripe, and a cluster of stripes above the white border. Another style is a rich, dark colored border, thickly strewn with white polka dots, and yet another is in chequer-board pattern running up and down the skirt and not as a bordering. Great discrimination should be used in the selection of plaids, as they are only suitable for tall, slender figures, and woe betide the stout party who takes liberties in that direction. Some of the newest plaids are in flannel finish and have fewer intersecting stripes consequently the squares are larger than ever.

WRAPS.

Long cloaks with tight fitting backs and closed fronts, giving the appearance of a complete costume, are variously ornamented and also perfectly plain while handsome buttons and buckles to match impart an elegant finish. Ulsters in pronounced plaids have pointed yokes and deep capes of accordion plaiting falling below the waist. Jackets are both plain and fanciful with a marked tendency towards open fronts, showing an embroidered vest, or later in the season a white shirt front: in this latter style the fronts are tied together by a handsome cord and tassel. Armure silk is the leading material for handsome wraps; although velvet and cloth richly braided or embroidered are popular. Shoulders are high, often forming a positive puff. Short wraps are sometimes longer in the back than those of last season, and more in the old mantilla shape with long ends in front, often of wide lace falling to the edge of the skirt loosely confined by ribbon. Elegant wraps are formed of alternating rows of passementerie and ribbon finished by bows of ribbon on the shoulders, at the throat and long ends of lace and ribbon. One style is entirely of passementerie on net, edged with wide lace and loops of ribbon. Pointed yokes are a conspicuous feature in all new styles. Capes of silk, lace, cloth and accordion pleating, have pointed yokes with two or three frills, embroidered, braided or with pinked edges. The last named styles are short, scarcely reaching the waist line and only adapted to slight figures.

ANSWERS.

"Miss M." The latest idea in matters pertaining to the toilet, is a small decorated china tray, on which stands two bottles, a tiny tray for hairpins, a little saucer for jewelry and a puff box. Two upright candlesticks are placed outside the tray. New glass bottles are round with silver stoppers.

"Mrs. L." During the ten years that Pears' soap has been so largely used in this country, it has steadily grown in favor until now there is hardly a hamlet so remote or so ignorant as not to be acquainted with its extremely fine qualities, which during this season of cutting winds find especial appreciation. The delicately scented varieties are used by fashionable ladies, but the unscented at moderate cost is equally efficacious.

"Ellen R." By all means select Pride of the West for the making of your underwear, since experience proves it to be superior to any other material for such purpose, being extremely durable and not likely to crack or turn yellow. Housekeepers also prefer it for pillow cases, sheets etc., and for the latter use, it comes in forty and forty-five inch widths. For underwear it is thirty-six inches wide.

"Maggie C." Would strongly advise you to have an embroidered "independent waist" in your trousseau; as you can wear it with different skirts, thus making a constant variety in your toilet. Those with surplice folds of silk, crossing from the right shoulder to the left side of the waist and confined by a buckle are specially attractive.

VERONA CLARKE.

A Man's Idea of Home Comfort.

A man wants some one place in home that he can call his very own, some portion of the house where his will is law, where no conflict of authority can arise, This is not altogether for the purpose of securing solitude, for his family is usually most welcome there, but the need for it springs from the desire for that sense of proprietorship which is his habit abroad, and from the wish to be able to do precisely as he pleases in at least a corner of his own house. Here should be the comforts that the man devises for himself, the lounging chairs, the desk and library, his smoking materials with license to use them. Here he should be able to feel absolutely at his ease troubled by no fear of "mussing things," no need to thread his way anxiously through a maze of furniture and various decorative obstructions, trembling lest something should be overturned and broken, and there should be the seat of that admired disorder to which he only has the clue. His books and papers should be left as he leaves them, though to the orderly female eye they may seem to lie in hopeless confusion. His desk may be littered with piles of books, magazines, letters, manuscripts, everything that can possibly find a place there, but if a woman wishes to secure to a man one of his most cherished home comforts, she will let that one alone.—Percy Vere, in March Ladies' Home Jonrnal.

A Strange Spectacle.

One of the strangest spectacles ever seen within the venerable walls of the Vatican at Rome was the dramatic entry of Buffalo Bill at the head of his Indians and cow boys on last Sunday morning, when the ecclesiastical, secular and military court of the Papacy assembled to witness the twelfth annual thanksgiving of Leo XIII for his coronation. In the midst of a scene of supreme splendor, crowded with old Roman aristocracy, and surrounded with walls immortalized by Michael Angelo and Raffaelo, there suddenly appeared a host of savages in paint, feathers and blankets, carrying tomahawks and knives.

A vast multitude surged into the great square before St. Peter's early in the morning to witness the arrival of the Americans. Before half past 9 o'clock the Ducal Hall, Royal Hall and Sistine chapel were packed. Through the middle of the three audiences was a pathway bordered with the brilliant uniforms of Swiss Guards, Palatine Guards, Papal gendarmes and private chamberlains. The sunlight fell upon lines of glittering steel, nodding plumes, golden chains, shimmering robes of silk and all the brilliant emblems of Pontifical power and glory.

Suddenly a tall, chivalrous figure appeared at the entrance, and all eyes were turned toward him. It was Buffalo Bill. With a sweep of his great sombrero he saluted the chamberlains, and then strode between the guards with his partner, Nate Salsbury.

Next came Buck Taylor, who towered hugely above the tallest man in the palace, his long hair tied back on his shoulders. Then came Broncho Bill, in buckskin, and after him trooped the cowboys, splashed with mud and picturesque beyond description. Rocky Bear led the Sioux warriors in the rear. They were painted in every color that Indian imagination could devise. Every one carried something to present to the Medicine Man sent by the Great Spirit. Rocky Bear rolled his eyes and folded his hands on his breast as he stepped on tiptoe through the glowing sea of color, and his braves furtively eyed the halberds and two handled swords of the Swift Guards.

The Indians and cowboys were ranged in the south corner of the Ducal Hall, and Buffalo Bill and Salsbury were escorted into the Sistine Chapel by the chamberlains, and were greeted by General Sherman's daughter. A princess invited Col. Coby to a place in the tribune of the Roman nobles. He stood facing the gorgeous diplomatic corps surrounded by princes, nobles and ancient families of the city. When the Pope appeared, carried above the heads of the guards, preceded by the Knights of Malta and a procession of cardinals and Archbishops, the cowboys bowed and so did the Indians. Rocky Bear knelt and made the sign of the cross. The Pontiff leaned yearningly toward the rude groups and blessed them. He seemed to be touched by the sight. As the train swept on the Indians became excited, and a squaw fainted. They had been warned not to utter a sound, and were with difficulty restrained from whooping. The Pope looked at Col. Cody intently as he passed, and the great scout bent low as he received the benediction. After the Thanksgiving Mass, with its grand choral accompaniment, with now and then the Pope's powered voice heard ringing through the Sistirn Chapel, the great audience poured out of the Vatican.

When the Indians went to camp, within sight of the grim castle of San Angelo, they found the only warrior who did not go to the Vatican dead in his blanket. Rocky Bear told his followers that the Great Spirit had done it.

CHRISTIAN REID, whose name as a writer of charming stories has become a household word, contributes the complete novel to the April number of LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE. It is entitled "A Cast for Fortune," and the scene is laid in Mexico, where the hero, a young American, has gone to build up his fallen fortunes. He meets with a variety of adventures while contemplating the purchase of a silver mine, and at length is set upon and severely wounded. He falls into the hands of good Samaritanes, however, in the shape of a wealthy Mexican gentleman and his lovely daughter, to whose hacienda he is borne and there nursed back to life and health The charm of Mexican life and scenery is portrayed with a skilful and sympathetic pen, and the creation of the noble and beautiful character of Zariffa, the heroine, must add fresh laurels to the fame of the author of "Morton House" and "After Many Days."

The Ladies Home Journal.

Mrs. President Harrison holds the position of honor in the March Ladies' Home Journal as the subject of an unusually interesting article "Mrs. Harrison in the White House" by A J Halford, brother of the President's private secretary. Mr, Halford certainly presents the best picture of domestic life in the Executive Mansion ever printed. Mrs. Harrison has personally authorized this article, and a new and a most beautiful portrait of her accompanies views of her own room, Mrs. McKee's room and other apartments in the White House not usually photographed. The famous English novelist "The Duchess" tells young women, in a most readable article, "How To Marry Well," while Dr, Talmage also talks to them about love of society and fashion in a way girls will like and profit by. A clever article on "A Man's Ideas of Home Comfort" is by Percy Vere, while a prominent New York editor sketches "The Home and Haunts of Walter Scott" beautifully illustrated. Maud Howe, Mrs. Whitney and Kate Tannat Woods furnish splendidly illustrated stories; Louise Chandler Moulton and Rose Hartwick Thorpe each has a poem; while other articles cover such entertaining topics as "How Women Can Make Money." "Fancy Work for Odd Moments," Side-Talks with Girls," "Words for Young Authors," "What Constitutes Success," "All About Flowers," "Practical Housekeeping," "Hint for Home Dressmaking," "The Latest Fashions." Games, stories, poems for children, needlework for the industrious, suggestions for mothers, and a thousand and one other things cover every subject in which women are interested, The Journal is certainly a splendid magazine, growing better all the time, and yet is kept at its low price of One Dollar a year. Published at 433-435 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

The First Step.

Perhaps you are run down, can't eat, can't sleep, can't think, can't do anything to your satisfaction, and you wonder what ails you: You should heed the warning, you are taking the first step into Nervous Prostration. You need a Nerve Tonic and in Electric Bitters you will find the exact remedy for restoring your nervous system to its normal, healthy condition. Surprising results follow the use of this Nerve Tonic and Alterative. Your appetite returns, good digestion is restored, and the Liver and Kidneys resume healthy action. Try a bottle. Price 50c, at W C Keplinger, & Co's Drugstore.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

The new two cent stamp is a fitting tribute to the red head girls.

Mrs. Hunter (looking meditatively at the empty fireplace)—"How much you used to enjoy the open fire I used to make for you at home on evenings when you came to see me before we were married!"

Mr. Hunter—"You've got bravely over little attentions of that sort, now, I notice."

Mrs. Hunter—"Yes; I soon found out it didn't seem so cheerful to you when you had to pay for the wood!"

Piles! Piles! Piles!

Dr William's Indian Pile Ointment is the only sure cure for Blind, Bleeding or Itching Piles ever discovered. It never fails to cure old chronic cases of long standing.

Judge Coons, Maysville, Ky., says: "Dr William's Indian Pile Ointment cured me after years of suffering."

Judge Coffinbury, Cleveland, O., says: "I have found by experience that Dr William's Indian Pile Ointment gives immediate and permanent relief."

We have hundreds of such testimonials. Do not suffer an instant longer. Sold by druggists at 50c. & $1 per box. ap4-1y

'Do you know, George, I wish you would stay at home to-morrow.'

'Why, darling?'

'Oh, because this afternoon a terrible looking tramp came here while you were away, and ordered me to give him something to eat, so I had to give him all that sponge-cake I made last Saturday, and, George, he says he's coming back to-morrow.'

'Did he eat the cake, darling?'

'Yes, all of it, every bit.'

'Well, then, set your mind at rest, dear, he will never come back.'

Is Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark', Ark., says: "Was down with Abcess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an Incurable Consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made."

Jesse Middlewart, Decator, Ohio, says "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of Lung Troubles. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at W. C. Keplinger & Co's drug store.

A LADY'S PERFECT COMPANION.

PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH, a new book by Dr. John H. Dye, one of New York's most skillful physicians, shows that pain is not necessary in Childberth, but results from causes easily understood and overcome. It clearly proves that any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. It also tells how to overcome and prevent morning sickness-swelled limbs, and all other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable and highly endorsed by physicians every where as the wife's true private companion. Cut this out: it will save you great pain, and possibly your life. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars, testimonials, and confidential letter sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Maryland.

From Ocean to Ocean.

Over thirty-two years ago, Mr. Alfred Speer, of Passaic, imported from the banks of the Doura, in portugal, a few of the Port Grape vines, and commenced careful experiments for the purpose of producing a first-class American Port both fermented and unfermented. He has been eminently successful, and now Speer's wine and unfermented juice is, known from ocean to ocean, and endorsed by the best medical talent in the world as the best now produced for the use of invalids. TO ADVERTISERS!

HOW TO GET THE MOST SERVICE FOR THE MONEY!

The Advertiser who would be willing to pay twenty-five cents for every family who could be "educated" up to the value of his goods would thus devote $3,000,000 to educate the 12,000,000 families which make up the 60,000,000 of the United States. This sum would do the business thoroughly in a year, for it is sufficient to pay for the insertion of a full column in every issue of every publication, and for resetting the matter, making it new in every issue of each separate publication. We will receive and execute the contract.

$5,000 One of the most successful Advertisers we ever had always ordered his advertisements in this way, "Get the best service you can for me for $5,000," leaving every detail to us. We were thus enabled to say to a Publisher, if you put this in at a large reduction from your rate it will be no criterion for further transactions. It was a surprise to find ourselves so often able to contract for the insertion of that particular advertisement at half rates, in papers which would not permit us to OFFER their columns at a penny's deviation from a printed schedule. The advertising rates of one New York paper are double those of another which has twice the circulation of the first. Similar discrepancies are not uncommon. The advertisement intrusted to us to be placed in accordance with our judgment often does double service for half the money. A dollar for twenty-five cents.

$1,000 If we are given authority to insert advertisements to a limited amount, in such mediums as ofier inducements which seem to us specially favorable, we shall not abuse the confidence reposed in us, and shall render statements of whatever is done (if anything) from day to day. When TRUSTED with the placing of an advertisement, we are put upon honor, and are bound in honor to give the best service possible for the money to be used.

$500 Leading Newspapers, especially the leading Agricultural Nswspapers, frequently issue large special editions (of twenty, fifty, a hundred, or even five hundred thousand copies,) and eslicit advertisement orders from us on terms which would often be accepted by our patrons if there was time to invite attention to the matter; but the question must generally be decided before there would be time to write and receive a reply, and often the case cannot be fully stated within the limits of a letter.

$250 Prepare a small advertisement and send with check for $250, or any other sum. The practice of asking the Agent to name his papers in advance compels him to name such as are well known, otherwise there is reason to suspect that his judgment is biased;—and the best papers do not like to have their rates quoted below their schedule.

$100 The advertiser who sends his advertisements asking for the best service possible for one hundred dollars, will often get from five to fifty per cent more service for his money, than he would had he required us to tell him in advance exactly what service we would promise; for when an estimate has been given its plan and specifications must, in a general way at least, control the advertising to be done: It ties the Agent's hands and prevents his giving his patrons TO-DAY a better service than he could have promised yesterday, because yesterday the opportunity had not presented itself: to-morrow it may have passed! Some publications are used more economically on contracts for a single issue; in others insertion for a month may be had as cheaply as for a single week but in furnishing an estimate in advance, if the Agent attempts to go into details, his correspondence becomes voluminous and the advertiser confused.

$50. If you are in the habit of occasionally inserting a small advertisement in a few papers, investing a few dollars and carefully noting the result; we desire you to make trial of our Advertising Bureau, sending us the advertisement and the money, leaving the selection of the papers to us, and judging of the service rendered by results rather than by names, circulation claims or prices. To make up careful estimates calls for much work. It don't pay to make them indiscriminately for every applicant. If such estimates as are asked for were always given the Advertiser who wished to expend $50 would frequently find himself in posession of a scheme which it would cost $500 or possibly $5,000 to carry out.

$10. We devote all necessary care to placing small orders for Advertising:—even the smallest! Time is saved by sending check with the order. Often the Advertiser is not possessed of sufficient information on the subject to enable him to judge of the merits of an estimate for advertising, and he decides by the footings of the figures whether he will or will not do the work. Yet the estimate binds the Agent and makes it improper for him to make any variation in its specifications, however much his judgment may point to material changes which ought to be made. This is specially liable to be the case when the order comes a considerable time after the estimate was made.

The breath of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked and frequently entirely destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat, sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis, which in its turn has been the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results which have attended its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balm as by far the best and only cure. 2 w

HENDERSON'S PLANKS.

It seems almost ridiculous to make the following explanation but, as it is so simple, it will not take much space. If the Centre Democrat will take the trouble to refer to the statement published in 1888 for the year 1887 it will there find an item 'John C. Henderson for old plank off the Julian bridge, $10.' The item should have been Port Matilda bridge, the mistake in the names being made by the auditors when auditing the accounts. As to the amount paid, the Commissioners put the plank up at public sale and no one would bid more than $5 and sooner than let them go for that Mr. Henderson gave $10 for them himself.

Waked up Effectually.

A lethargic, dormant condition of the liver is hardly to be overcome with drastic cathartics and nauseous cholagogues. A gentler, pleasanter and far more effective means exists of arousing the organ when somnolent. This is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, vouched for by the medical fraternity, tested by the public for many years. A resumption by the billary organ of its secretive function, with the activity attendant up on health, a return to regularity of the bowels, and a renewal of digestion, are the no less happy and certain results of using the Bitters systematically. Its laxative effective is never painful and drenching, its tendency being rather to perpetuate regularity than to produce a copious action. Malaria, nervousness debility, kidney troubles and neuralgia it subdues effectually.

FOR BALLOT REFORM.

The Saxton Bill Criticised by New York's Governor.

HE WON'T SIGN IT AS IT IS.

And He Asks the Legislature to Pass a Joint Resolution Requesting the Court of Appeals to Decide Upon Its Constitutionality.

ALBANY, March 26.—Governor Hill sent the following communication to the legislature:

ALBANY, March 25.

To the Legislature:

Senate bill No. 117, generally known as the Saxton ballot reform bill, is now before me for consideration.

As is well known, it establishes a new system of voting in this state. It abolishes the existing election laws and the changes contemplated are conceded to be most important and radical.

The objects which it professes to accomplish are unquestionably commendable. Many of its features are excellent, and several have been recommended by me in my annual messages during the past two years.

But certain of its provisions are believed by me to be in violation of the constitution of this state. This conviction is deep seated and controlling, and has been confirmed by the concurring opinions of many leading lawyers of the state. Under the existing situation I cannot conscientiously approve the bill in its present shape, or consistently permit it to become a law without my signature. I have, however, no mere pride of opinion in this matter, and will cheerfully acquiesce when convinced that my views are unsound.

The bill affects vast public interests and relates to the sacred rights of suffrage and the high prerogatives of citizenship, but if it should be enacted into law the objectionable provisions are so interwoven with the other features of the measure that serious consequences and much confusion and injury must inevitably ensue if it shall thereafter appear that the questionable provisions or any portion thereof are in conflict with the constitution. In that event the whole election machinery of the state would be broken down and destroyed.

Its Advisability Apparent.

The advisability of an early adjudication of the validity of this proposed measure (especially while the legislature is in session) is very apparent. The best interests of the state would be subserved and the cause of electoral reform greatly promoted and its success hastened if the constitutionality of these provisions could be informally determined by the court of appeals at this time for the information and guidance of both the legislature and the executive.

The constitutions of several states, notably Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Colorado and Florida, expressly provide that upon the application of the executive (and in one or two of them upon the application of the legislature) the highest court of such state shall render an opinion informally upon the constitutionality of any proposed measure pending before the executive, and upon which he may desire such information for his official action.

The Court of Appeals.

It is to be regretted that some such provision is not contained in the constitution of our own state, but in view of the vast importance of this particular measure, as well as of the dangers which may be avoided, and of the good results which are likely to ensue if a better understanding of the constitutional questions supposed to be involved can be arrived at without litigation and without further conflict between the legislature and the executive, it is believed that the court of appeals, upon the joint request of the legislature and the executive, would, as a matter of courtesy due from a co-ordinate branch of the state government, readily undertake to examine the proposed measure, and informally express an opinion as to the constitutionality of its provisions.

This course is not wholly without sanction or precedent. Formerly the chancellor, together with certain judges of the old supreme court as members of the council of revision, were accustomed to render their opinions to the executive upon the constitutionality of proposed legislation, and in 1872, upon request, the court of appeals expressed its opinion upon certain legislation then pending and awaiting approval. The jurisdiction of the court of appeals is not conferred by the constitution, but by statute.

A Non-Partisan Tribunal.

The time for my consideration of this measure does not expire until April 2. The court, if promptly convened, will have ample time before that date for the examination of the questions involved. The two divisions of the court of appeals represent opposite political sentiments. The people of the state, without distinction of party, have the highest respect for that court, and unbounded confidence in its decisions. It is a court which will not be governed by partisan prejudices, or affected by unintelligent clamor or influenced by improper appeals, or deterred from the bold and fearless discharge of its duty by any considerations whatever.

To such a tribunal the friends and opponents of the measure may safely intrust the consideration of the constitutional questions which are alone proposed to be submitted to it.

The Recommendation.

It is therefore recommended that a joint resolution be passed by the legislature respectfully requesting the court of appeals (first and second divisions) to convene at their earliest possible convenience for the purpose of examining this measure and expressing their opinions informally as to the constitutionality of the provisions thereof.

It is my earnest desire to aid the solution of the problem of electrical reform, and that spirit alone has prompted this communication. I trust that the legislature, with a similar desire to secure practical results in the effort to abolish the evils now attending our elections, will meet my suggestion in the same spirit, and will readily acquiesce in my request to refer the constitutional questions in controversy to a competent non-partisan tribunal.

DAVID B. HILL.

ALBANY LEGISLATION.

The Senate Sends the Governor's Message to the Judiciary.

ALBANY, March 26.—The message of the governor on the ballot reform bill was then received by the senate and read.

When the reading of the message had been concluded, Mr. Chase, acting on the suggestion conveyed in the message, offered the following concurrent resolution:

Resolved (if the assembly concur), That the legislature unite with the governor in respectfully requesting the court of appeals (first and second divisions) to furnish its opinion informally upon the constitutionality of the provisions of the Saxton ballot reform bill now in the governor's hands and awaiting approval.

Mr. Saxton said that the proposal came very late, as the legislature had already considered the question of constitutionality. The suggestion should have been made before the bill was passed. The advice tendered by the governor was certainly not needed by the legislature, which has already determined that there is no constitutional question to be determined.

He moved that the message and Mr. Chase's resolution be referred to the judiciary committee.

Adopted by a party vote—Yeas 14, nays 12, the Democrats in the negative.

In the Assembly.

ALBANY, March 26.—In the assembly a message was received from the governor on the Saxton bill.

Mr. Husted moved that the communication be referred to the committee on judiciary.

Mr. Husted's motion to refer the message to the committee on the judiciary was carried by a party vote of 59 to 50.

THAT SHAM BATTLE.

A Narrow Escape from a Scene of Bloody Carnage.

HOLYOKE, Mass., March 26.—The brief announcement of the shooting of Private Frank Snyder, at East Hampton, on Saturday, gave no idea of the bloody carnage that was so narrowly averted. There was a sham battle, but instead of having blank cartridges, as was supposed, the guns were loaded with ball. Fortunately only one victim fell—Frank Snyder, of Holyoke, South Hadley Falls.

The scene in which Snyder received a bullet in his neck depicts a charge of the Confederates on the Unionists, the latter repelling the charge by volley after volley of musketry. The bullet entered under the ear, fortunately without cutting arteries, and Snyder fell unconscious. His wound was immediately dressed by a physician, who probed for but could not find the ball. An investigation showed that one out of every three cartridges used was loaded with a ball, and it was owing to the fact that the order, "Shoot over their heads," had been given just before the charge was made that many were not killed.

It was known ball cartridges were on the stage. In the scene where the spy is shot, which comes half an hour previous to the charge, the man detailed to shoot fired his rifle in the air. The ball passed through a wall, struck another wall and, rebounding, fell to the stage and was picked up. This fact was sufficient warning for the managers. Just before the Union troops rushed on the stage their commander examined the ammunition and found a ball in every third cartridge. The commander of the Confederate forces was not warned, nor did he think it necessary to take these precautions.

The ball that wounded Snyder cut through the visor of the cap of the man who stood next to him. The walls were riddled with balls, and a piece of wood three inches square was cut off a corner of the wall. Stage Manager Nait was completely broken down, and he leaped against the flies and wept bitterly. Almost every one of the cartridges unused was found to be loaded. How the ball cartridges came to get mixed with the blank ones is not known. The ball cartridges were of twenty-two grains. They had been used for target shooting in the armory, and had in some way got mixed in the box of blanks. The members of Company D are determined to find out who was guilty of such gross carelessness.

Jack Glasscock Talks.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 26.—Glasscock said yesterday: "I notice that some of the papers say I am to captain the New York team. That's not true; I don't want the position." In reference to the salaries of the men who go to New York under the terms of the late freeze out, Glasscock said: "Before Brush went away he called us together and the matter of transfer to New York was discussed. He foresaw that he was going to be forced to sell out, and, of course, he wanted to know whether we would consent to the transfer, and what salaries we would demand from New York. Our propositions made through him have doubtless been accepted, or the transfer wouldn't be announced."

He Poked It with a Stick.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., March 26.—At Sweetser's Station, Grant county, two men, Roy Pritchett and William Spence, found a can of nitro-glycerine in the woods near the village, and attempted to explode it by heaping leaves over it and setting them on fire. The stuff not exploding, Pritchett approached and began punching it with a burning stick. As he was stooping over it an explosion followed, which blew out his eyes, tore out both his arms and otherwise so horribly mutilated him that he died a few minutes afterward. Clarence Moore, a boy who was passing at the time, was struck by a flying stone and seriously hurt. Spence, who standing at some distance, was knocked down but not injured.

Attacked by a Maniac.

AUSTIN, Tex., March 26.—Dr. J. S. Dorsett, superintendent of the state lunatic asylum, was assaulted and dangerously injured by a lunatic named McDermott. He was making his usual rounds in the wards when McDermott, seizing an iron rod, crept behind Dorsett and hit him a blow on the head. Three other blows were struck before the attendants could grab the maniac. Ever since the desperado McCoy was hanged at San Antonio McDermott has been threatening to kill Dr. Dorsett because he said he was able to have prevented his execution.

BALFOUR'S LAND BILL.

The New Plan Proposed to Relieve Ireland's Distress.

MR. PARNELL'S OPINION.

He Is Represented as Saying That the Measure Is Absurd and Objectionable in the Highest Degree — Comments of the English Press.

LONDON, March 26.—In the house of commons Monday Mr. Balfour, chief secretary for Ireland, introduced a bill for the purchase of land in Ireland and for the improvement of the poorer and more congested districts. The bill also provides for the establishment of an Irish land department. Mr. Balfour said he believed that every party agreed as to the necessity for increasing the number of occupying owners in Ireland.

Monday the members of the house, for the most part, reserved their opinions upon the measure until they shall have had time to study the bill; but the Parnellites were an exception to this rule, and freely criticised the complex arrangements suggested by Mr. Balfour for solving the difficulties of land purchase and the annoyance and injury which would be sure to arise from the sections dealing with local rates and taxes. They intend to offer a strong opposition to the second reading, on the grounds which are indicated in Mr. Parnell's remarks in The Dublin Freeman's Journal on tenant purchase of land in Ireland.

The Bill Absurd.

In this interview, as printed in that newspaper, Mr. Parnell is represented as saying that the land purchase bill is absurd and objectionable in the highest degree. The liability which the English taxpayer will not incur it is coolly proposed to transfer to the Irish cesspayer. That the object of the government is to inflate the value of Irish land to an inordinate extent is clearly disclosed in Balfour's speech. A fatal defect of the measure is that it proposes to give no local control over its administration. In that respect, Mr. Parnell said, it is a long way behind Trevelyan's bill.

Mr. Davitt is equally pronounced against the bill as an insidious proposal to give the landlord more than the value of his land.

Mr. Sexton says the bill is less favorable to the tenant than the Ashbourne act.

Mr. Gladstone in his speech expressed pleased surprise on hearing the possibility of there being £1,500,000 left of the Irish church surplus. He said that when he was last officially informed on the subject he learned that the money had been exhausted.

The Standard's Views.

The Standard says that not only is the measure thorough, but it is singularly ingenious. It thinks that although twenty years is fixed as the maximum time for purchase seventeen years is likely to be the average. It attaches much importance to the proposal dealing with arrears, and, in conclusion, while admitting points that may be advantageously modified, it says that in general scope and bearing the measure may be trusted to stand the brunt even of malevolent criticism. Regarding the Irish church surplus, the Standard understands that about two millions remain. The bill consists of ninety clauses of much complexity. The bulk of the Unionists will support the bill.

The Bill Abominable.

The Pall Mall Gazette says that the bill is abominable in that it dishonestly professes to clear the British taxpayer of responsibility, while his credit is the sole lever by which Mr. Balfour expects to gain his ends. It is also unjust in that it confers upon a handful of citizens at the expense of the rest of the community a boon to which they have no claim beyond other cultivators of the soil.

No Obvious Defect.

The St. James' Gazette defends the complicated nature of the proposals contained in the bill. The chief merit of the bill, it says, lies in its elaborate system of checks and counter checks, by means of which purchasing tenants are prevented from becoming a burden upon the imperial exchequer. The Gazette further says that the scheme requires a minute examination, but if an obvious defect existed it would have been pounced upon at once by an acute critic like Mr. Gladstone.

Death Ended His Agony.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., March 26.—Charles W. Logan, son of Randolph Logan, a wealthy capitalist, died here, after suffering for eight weeks the most excruciating agonies. He held an important subordinate position at the Camden oil refinery. While washing some oil from his hands in a tub of benzine the liquid became ignited and flashed up all about his head, burning him horribly. Six hours after his wounds were dressed his bed caught fire while he was resting on it, and he was badly burned again. For eight weeks he has suffered such agonies that he daily cried out for the relief from pain that death only could bring. He was but 20 years old and indirectly related to the late Gen. Logan.

BERLIN, March 26.—The emperor has appointed Count Eulenburg, now governor of Hesse-Nassau, Prussian minister of the interior; Dr. Miguel, one of the leaders of the national liberal party, minister of finance; Baron Heune, minister of agriculture, and Gen. von Goltz, minister of public works.

Justice Gray Takes a Wife.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 26.—Judge Gray, of the New York court of appeals, and Mrs. Grace Turnbull, of New York, were quietly married here yesterday at the bride's residence. A small dinner party followed. The couple left for New York today.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 26.—Alice Townsend, the burlesque actress, died here. She was the wife of Sam T. Jack, the theatrical manager.

They Were Cremated.

GUTHRIE, I. T., March 26.—Word is received that several of the rude dwellings of new settlers in Oklahoma were blown down by a heavy wind storm. Rube Johnson, his wife and their child were killed by the falling timbers of their house. The debris caught fire from an overturned stove and the bodies of all three victims were cremated.

Milesburg Contributes a Newsy Letter To-day.

John Hall wears a broad smile now—it is a girl.

Several disgraceful fights took place at the depot on Saturday evening on the arrival of the Snow Shoe train. The combatants were from Bellefonte.

Now that our depot is finished some of our citizens should suggest to Superintendent Blair the advisability of placing a lamp near the depot to enable passengers to get on and off trains.

Mr. William Pletcher, of Pittsburg, and Miss Mary Wallace, of Milesburg, were married on Friday at the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. Lew Wallace. They will depart for Pittsburgh on Wednesday where they will make their future home. Mr. Pletcher is a freight conductor on the P. & L. E. railroad and is an excellent young man in every respect, and the writer joins with hosts of friends in wishing them success in this life.

Mr. C. H. Else, our druggist, is, at this writing, dangerously ill. We hope to hear of his speedy recovery.

It is reported that William Newberry whose home was formerly in Milesburg, was killed at Lock Haven on Saturday while walking on the P. & E. railroad track.

Mr. George Flick, of Wallace Run, was seen walking on our streets on Sunday. Something like a magnetic influence attracts George. How is it M.

Harry Austin—after taking leave of his sweetheart—departed on the 9 o'clock p. m. train on Saturday for Cameron where he is now engaged in laying brick.

Mr. Newton Jones is home again from Johnstown. Many of his warm friends are very glad to see him once more.

Frank, the youngest son of Thomas Miles, died at his home on Sunday at 9 o'clock. The parents have our deepest sympathy. His death will be mourned by all who knew him in this life; and may the soft South winds murmer sweet requiems o'er his remains and the twilight dews fall gently, like an angel's teardrop, and moisten his turfy bed.

Frank Shope is lying very low with typhoid fever.

—Ex-Chief Burgess James McCann died at his home in Tyrone on Monday evening.

The experience of the British Government thus far, with postal telegraphy, shows conclusively an annual loss to the Government and the further —To the Renovo News man: Come over to Bellefonte, young man, and you will soon find out that this is the livest "dead newspaper" you ever "sot eyes on."

—We are glad to hear that Dr. E E Hale is improving surely if slowly: He is now able to walk alone and can sit up quite a spell at a time without overexerting himself.

—And now some enterprising newspaper is trying to boon Judge Dean, of Blair county, as a compromise candidate on the Repubtican ticket for the nomination for Governor.

—A A Clark, a brakeman on the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad, and who lived with his mother at Mapleton, fell from his train a short distance below Tyrone and was instantly killed.

—The Bellefonte band was on the street on Tuesday evening. They serenaded Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Spangler, playing several pieces in a way that called forth high praise from those who heard them.

—There is a pine tree in John T. Fowler's park which has been cut off for over three years. When cut it fell against another tree and it has remained alive and green ever since. It is considered a curiosity by the many who have been to see it.

—When you step on a loose brick in the sidewalk and an ice-cold stream of muddy slush shoots up to your collar button, don't say naughty words. Smile pleasantly and explain to the grinning people about you that you don't mind little things like that.

—On the pension list those in Centre county recently receiving benefit are James Eagan, Blanchard, an increase; Margaret, widow of George Haines, Howard, granted pension as an original widow; and Emanuel Pletcher, of Howard, granted as an original invalid.

—The coroner's jury in the case of Charles Mosher, in Lock Haven, charged with inflicting blows upon William Newberry, from the effects of which he died, arrived at a verdict on Monday. The verdict in substance was that said Newberry came to his death from Apoplexy superinduced by injuries to the brain caused by blows received from the said Mosher. The latter is under arrest but has not yet had a hearing.

—The Easter number of the New York Ledger is rendered especially attractive by an uncommonly beautiful cover printed in colors. The central design is a picture of Easter morning in the country, the road to church, with a border of Easter lilies. This number contains the first chapters of a new story by Amelia E Barr, entitled, "The Household of McNeil," which opens well, and bids fair to rival "Jan Vedder's Wife," so far the best known of Mrs Barr's romances.

Very True.

It is the experience of publishers that too many people are apt to think it matters but little whether the newspaper bill is paid promptly or not—that it is but a small sum, and is therefore of but little consequence. And this is not because subscribers are unwilling to pay, but rather because they are negligent. Each one imagines that because his year's indebtedness amounts to so small a sum, the publisher cannot be much in need of it; without thinking for a moment that the income of a newspaper is made up of just such small amounts, and that the aggregate of all subscriptions is by no means an inconsiderable sum of money.

How to Treat a Wife.

One of the most despicable practices that a married man can be guilty of is a kind of coarse jesting at the bondage of the married state, and a laugh at the shackles which a wife imposes. On the contrary, be it your pride to exhibit to the world that sight on which the wise man passes such an enconium; "Beautiful before God and men are a man and wife that perfectly agree." Make it an established rule to consult your wife on all occasions—your interest is hers—and undertake no plan contrary to her advice and opposition. Independent of better motives, what a responsibility does it free you from! For if the affair turns out ill you are spared reproaches both from her and from your own feelings.

—A woodsman named Kennedy was terribly injured while at work breaking a log pile on Kettle Creek Saturday afternoon. The logs crushed his legs so severely that his death is likely to result from the injuries.

Irl R, Hicks' April Weather.

A feature in the outlook for April, without meteorological significance further than this close coincidence with the periods of disturbance, is the fact that every change of the moon falls on a Saturday, and all but the last at an early morning hour. Full on the 5th about 3 a. m.; last quarter on the 12th, between 4 and 5 a. m.; new moon on the 19th, about 2 a. m. and first quarter on the 26th, near 11 o'clock, p. m.

The cool to cold weather following the last storm period for March will be followed by rising, rectionary temperature, with much tendency to vernal storms about the 1st and 2nd, especially the 2d of April. The early days of April will pitch a Summer temperature into many belated snow banks of March.

About the 6th, nature's forces will begin to organize for the storm movements which are almost sure to take place between that date and the 10th. The 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th are the danger days of the calendar. It will be wise to count on much rain, attended with lightning, wind and hail, with snow, perhaps, in Northerly sections. After the storms of this period and through much of the interim up to the reactionary warmth and storms about the 13th, it will be quite cool, with much frost. Be prepared for such.

A Philipsburg School Entertainment.

A friend sends us the following for publication:

The entertainment given by the pupils of the South Philipsburg public schools, on Wednesday evening, March 19th, was attended by a large audience of people who came from all parts of the community. Only a nominal admission was charged, and yet a neat little sum was realized, which will be devoted to purchasing new books for the school library. The schoolroom had been transformed into a miniature theatre, by the erection of a temporary stage, on which the actors and actresses rendered a program with such excellence as to hold the attention, and please the entire audience, and well repay those who had come from the neighboring school districts to see and hear.

The entertainment was opened by a musical selection rendered in excellent style by an orchestra consisting of Messrs Chas Frank, J W Rightnour, Fred Maurer John Henry and others, after which a lengthy and well prepared programme of literary exercises was gone through with, which programme was concluded by the delivery of the valediction by Prof. G. W. Morrison, teacher of the school.

At the conclusion of Prof. Morrison's address he presented Misses Nellie Batchelor and Nettie Bathgate, each with a beautiful silver cup as rewards for regular attendance and good conduct. Nettie Bathgate, Delia and Grace Pearce and Grace Hazzard, each won class prizes which were presented to them and then Prof. Morrison the faithful and competent teacher received a little surprise when Prof. McDonald in a short but very well worded address presented him with a valuable and useful Paul E. Wirt fountain pen, a gift from the school. Prof. Morrison was so surprised and pleased that he was rattled for a moment but pulled himself together and made a little speech of thanks in which he expressed his pleasure at receiving so beautiful and useful a gift from his pupils and that he would prize it not alone for its intrinsic value but as a token of the good will and esteem of his pupils.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are some of the more common symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet surely and efficiently. It tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and by thus overcoming the local symptoms removes the sympathetic effects of the disease, banishes the headache, and refreshes the tired mind.

Distress After Eating

Sick Headache

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness, or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, I think, was aggravated by my business, which is that of a painter, and from being more or less shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla—took three bottles. It did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." Are You Nervous?

Next to blood, kidney and liver afflictions, nervousness and nerve irregularities are the most common.

Within the last twenty-five years the number of nervous diseases has increased largely, and the medical fraternity have given them a great deal of attention.

As to the causes of nervous affections, their name is legion; high living, dissipation, irregularities of diet, late hours, overwork, great grief, the high-pressure mode of life, with its ceaseless round of activity and exertion, calling for constant expenditure of nerve force, all tend to depress and exhaust the nervous system. The merchants bend for hours over their books, or are whirled at lightning speed over a country unknown to their fathers; the student burns freely the "midnight oil," while the housewife, in her efforts to keep pace with the requirements of modern society, calls into active play every fibre of the nerve system. What is the result? All over the land medical men are battling with nervous dyspepsia, nervous headache, nervous weakness and in many cases with general nervous prostration, oftentimes developing into paralysis.

Use the Best Tonic

To regain health you must correct all that is wrong in the nerve centres, and then all the various troubles arising from their diseased condition will disappear.

In Brown's Sarsaparilla you have a nerve tonic and nerve food which supplies the waste tissues. Remember that the blood, taking up the sound material from the healthy stomach, feeds every nerve and fibre of the human body, and in no other way can reconstruction and improvements in the system go on. Brown's Sarsaparilla will deliver the food pure and healthy into the blood.

MRS. DORCAS STONE, wife of the well-known railroad contractor, who has operated all over New England, became afflicted with that disease so very common among women. She says: "Yes, I do know what nervousness means. I have had it in its worst forms. I could not sleep, could not follow any line of work; the cry of my babe struck harshly upon my ear, the shutting of a door quick or the fall of a book or any unusual noise upon the street would give me a start. It seems to me, now that I look back to it, as though I lived for years as some hunted animal might live. I mistrusted every one and was possessed of a constant and nameless fear. Physicians told me the nerve centre was affected and when my food would not digest; when it soured on my stomach; when my appetite became capricious, they said I had nervous dyspepsia. I tried several physicians and adopted every thing suggested by friends, yet my nights were wakeful ones, and my days those of torture. One day Brown's Sarsaparilla fell under my notice; I began the use of it, and as a result the nerves were returned to their normal condition, as were also the digestive organs, and a perfect and permanent cure was the result."

The National Capital at its Gayest.

What season of the year is more advantageous than spring, to make a tour to the Nation's Capital? The Capital is the centre, around which clusters bright minds of our own and foreign governments; it is the National barometer of social movements. To witness the activity of a working Congress would alone compensate one for the trip to say nothing of the thousand and one points of interest and instruction in and about the city. Those embracing the opportunity presented by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's excursion to Washington, April 3d, cannot fail to review it afterwards as time profitably spent.

A choice of trains may be made between the special of Parlor Cars and Day Coaches, the schedule of which is given, or the regular night trains leaving Pittsburg at 7.15 and 8.10 P. M.

Tickets will be sold from Bellefonte at $7.25 on the train departing at 10.35 a. m.

Return coupons will be accepted on any train within the limit, except the Pennsylvania Limited.

The next and last tour of the series is fixed for April 24th.

Words of Advice.

To those who require a stimulent. There are many to whom we could recommend you: We think there are just as many honest Liquor dealers as there are dealers in any other class of merchans dise, and again we believe that there are many who sell whiskey or any other commodity, who are not reliable. We have noticed that our best physicians and superintendents of hospitals have by there testimonials highly recommended Klein's Silver Age Rye therefore we say his is the place to which we would advise every one to go. He sells six years old Guckenheimer, Finch, Gibson, or Overholt for $1 per full quart or six quarts for $5. Wines, Brandies, and Gins cheap as the cheapest. COL. J. L. SPANGLER WEDDED.

A Brilliant Party Assembled at the Home of Mrs. Lida Holliday to Witness the Marriage of That Lady.

On Tuesday evening as early as 6.30 guests began to assemble at the pleasant home of Mrs. Lida Holliday, on North east corner of Diamond, for the purpose of witnessing the marriage of that estimable lady to Col. Jackson L. Spangler, one of the brightest lawyers at the Bellefonte bar. At 7 o'clock sharp the wedding party marched into the room and took their stand before Rev. W. A. Houck, of the M. E. church, who performed the marriage ceremony. Miss Ohumacht played the wedding march. The maids of honor were Misses Myra Holliday and Millie Smith.

Congratulations were the first thing in order after the ceremony, and everybody seemed to be supplied with an over stock of them which they largely tendered to the smiling and happy couple. Refreshments were then served, and in keeping with every thing else, these were choice and bountiful.

The presents were numerous and valuable. Governor and Mrs. Beaver sent a set of solid siver salad forks; General and Mrs. Hastings a French bronze and onyx mantel clock; Miss Tome and Mrs. Bush a candelabra to match; the groom's father a handsome grandfather's clock; the groom to the bride a gold enameled and a diamond bracelet, and two paid up life insurance policies for $2000 each. Other presents were numerous and valuable.

The bride was handsomely dressed in a costume of Heliotrope silk, trimmed with velvet of a darker shade. She also wore diamonds. The groom was dressed in the conventional black.

Among the guests present were many prominent people of Bellefonte. Capt. Carswell and wife of Johnstown, were present. Telegrams of regret were received from General and Mr. William Hastings.

The happy couple departed, amid showers of rice, on the 9 o'clock train for a tour through eastern and southern cities.

Kephart—Wakefield.

At four o'clock on Tuesday evening Mr. Miles Kephart, of Fleming, Pa., was married to Mrs. Emma Wakefield, of this place. The wedding was somewhat sudden but then it was the romantic ending of a youthful love affair. Years ago Mr. Kephart and the then Miss Graham were lovers but the latter preferred Mr. Wakefield and they were married. Now after all these years, the two lovers of their youth have finally been united.

M. E. Conference.

From the Altoona Tribune we copy the following from the report of Presiding Elder Hamlin :

In the work of church building and improvement, the enterprise and zeal of our people have suffered no abatement. A willingness to contribute liberally to these purposes, is everywhere manifested. During the year five new churches have been dedicated. Gray's church on Half Moon charge, a beautiful brick edifice costing about $4,000, was dedicated early in the year. At Lemont, on Pine Grove charge, there now stands as a monument to the liberality of the small membership at that place an elegant little church, erected at a cost of about $2,000. It was dedicated December 15 with all indebtedness provided for. At Bania, Ramey charge, the church, the foundations of which were laid last year, has been finished at a cost of about $3,000, only a light indebtedness remaining. It was dedicated in August the Rev G. D. Penepacker, and the Rev. M. L. Ganoe, officiating, to whom for services on that occasion rendered, we are greatly indebted. At a cost of about $1,200 has been erected at Madera, Glen Hope charge, a comfortable little church. It was dedicated free of debt by Rev. Dr. Reed, president of Dickinson college, whose visit to this growing town was a great blessing and will be long and greatfully remembered.

Many of the churches in the district have been greatly improved, notably the church at Bellefonte. Of the expense incident to this costly improvement $1,775 has been collected and paid this year. The reopening services were intensely interesting, Dr. Reed, of Carlisle, preaching on the occasion two eloquent and appropriate sermons.

The church at Centre, Howard circuit, has also been enlarged and improved at a cost of $735. It was reopened by Dr. Gray, of Dickinson seminary, through whose skillful and vigorous management the whole indebtedness was provided for.

The church at Birmingham charge has also been improved and made beautiful, at a cost of $650, all of which has been paid. At a considerable cost several other churches have been improved. The whole amount collected and paid on church improvement during the year will aggregate $5,000.

About $1,500 have been expended in the improvement of parsonage property. A parsonage costing $950 has been purchased at Spring Mills, a central location of Penns Valley circuit. At Tyrone also a comfortable parsonage, well located, has been purchased at a cost of $4,500.

The character of the effective elders was passed, they reporting their missionary collections as follows · Altoona, Chestnut Avenue, James H McCord ; Altoona, First church, $700 ; Altoona, Simpson church, Reuben E Wilson $84 ; Bellefonte, William A Houck, $400 ; Bellwood, Asbury W Guyer ; Clearfield, George D Penepacker, $682 , Clearfield circuit, Albert R Lambert, $200 ; Curwensville, G Tarring Gray, $660 ; Duncansville, Henry N Minnigh, $115 ; Glen Hope, Bruce Hughes, $525 ; Half Moon, Andrew P Wharton, $257 ; Hollidaysburg, Emory T Swartz, $140 ; Houtzdale, Richard H Colburn, $80 ; Howard, Geo. E King $70 ; Martinsburg and Roaring Spring, William W Reese ; Milesburg and Unionville, George W Bouse, $67 ; New Washington, Nathan B Smith, $91 ; Osceola, Marshal C Piper, $188 ; Penn's Valley, Owen Hicks, $123 ; Philipeburg, James H McGarrh, $980 ; Ramey, Edwin H Witman, $115 ; Snow Shoe, Joseph W Bedford, $81 ; Tyrone, George Leidy, $574 ; Wallaceton, Elisha Shoemaker, $50 : Warriorsmark, William A Carver, $12 : Williamsburg, William F D Noble, $180 : Woodbury and Loydsburg, John W Ely, $50 : Woodland, Joseph F Anderson,—.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

This afternoon a meeting of the Women's Home Missionary society was held. There was a large number of persons present, among which were many visitors from towns along the Cumberland Valley. The meeting opened with devotional exercises, led by Mrs. Reed, wife of the Rev. Dr. George E. Reed, president of Dickinson College. Music was furnished by a portion of the choir of the Carlisle Methodist church and several members of the College Glee club. After a hymn had been sung by the choir a fervent prayer was offered for the success of the meeting by Mrs. Dr Reed, which was followed by a selection by the choir.

The secretary, Mrs. Owen, of Mechanicsburg, was introduced and made an address before the meeting. She thought a church and conference should advance, and the very fact that the Woman's Home Missionary society met in Basler hall this afternoon was proof that the Central Pennsylvania conference of the Methodist Episcopal church had advanced. She paid a tribute to the society for the noble work it has done and closed with introducing her successor as secretary of the society, Mrs. T. L. Tompkinson.

Mrs. Tompkinson arose and made an address in which she gave a brief summary of its aims and efforts. She began with its organization some years ago in the city of Cincinnati, and then tersely pointed out its spread and growth up until the present time. Mrs Tompkinson possesses a clear musical voice and her address was very interesting.

The treasurer reported the following moneys paid to the society by auxiliaries : Chambersburg, $148.20; Harrisburg, Ridge Avenue church, $76.47; Harrisburg, Grace church, $320; Williamsport, $366.25; Williamsport, Grace church, $47.55; Carlisle, $75; Milton, $11.25, New Cumberland $86,75.

After the missionary meeting had adjourned an anniversary of the Pennsylvania Bible society was held. Upon this occasion a very able address was made by Rev. Dr. Morrow.

The anniversary in the interests of the church extension society was held at 7.30. Rev. J M Lantz presided and addresses were delivered by Rev. H L Jacobs, and Dr. A J Kynett, the corresponding secretary.

Huntingdon "Speak-Easies."

The town of Huntingdon, notwithstanding the fact that it has no licensed place for selling liquor, is apparently gay and festive in the matter of liquor drinking, in spite of the law. Else why should Judge Furst in court there on Tuesday have said what he did, as follows :

"Before argument on either side had begun Judge Furst warmly spoke of a certain statement which had been made voluntarily to him to-day by a responsible person relative to the amazing amount of drinking that is practiced in this town, notwithstanding its supposed prohibition environment, and especially has this been the case, continued Judge Furst, in the 'speak-easies' and other similar drinking resorts that have grown up like mushrooms in the town. Continuing, his honor said : "Prohibition in this county, it seems, encourages the creation and maintenance of private drinking clubs and an increase in the amount of drinking. I raise this question principally on the moral habits of this community, and not on the point of offering a favorable consideration to the granting of licenses." Judge Furst said that this condition of things would not be permitted to exist in his town (Bellefonte) for twenty days, and to the gentlemen who spoke in favor of the remonstrances he said that on them especially and upon the petitioners whom they represented devolved the moral duty to see that these unlawful drinking establishments are broken up."

Our Witty Genius.

Wits are few and far between. There is generally but one in every community and it is only proper to give him the public recognition that he so richly deserves. Our wit in this neighborhood has always been regarded as an extremely funny man, and his wit shines forth conspicuously week after week through that funniest of funny "That Columns" that appears in a weekly newspaper, published in this place, to make its readers "laugh and grow fat." The editor, Mozart's Tinpan Handel Speer aims to amuse and he is abundantly successful. Pass a panorama of laughable pictures before you—let the first represent a giraffe attempting to play the violin; the second a child of five summers being engaged in writing for the "That Column" of a country newspaper; the third a raven presiding over a philharmonic club and the fourth, which you see nearly every week, now representing Mr. Speer criticising a musical production, will prove a rich and fitting climax to them all. These are some of the ridiculous comparisons that suggest themselves as our learned critic endeavors to perform his assumed duty of espousing the cause of the few and crushing (?) the many.

—We always considered it beneath the dignity of a professed christian gentleman (?) to use the columns of a public journal as the medium through which to vent personal spite because of personal animosity, and at the same time to reflect on the character and conduct of young ladies. Were it not for the fact that some things can be carried to extremes we would treat the question under consideration as it deserves to be treated—with contempt; but as it is, in defence of decency and religion, we think it about time that the attacks on the Presbyterian church choir, through a certain paper of this town, be hereafter suppressed.

—A dispatch from Harrisburg published in Thursday's papers says : "Hon. Leonard Rhone, of Centre County, Worthy Master of the State Grange Patrons of Husbandry, says that if the old political party does not nominate a man the grangers want there will be a third candidate in the field to be known distinctively as the granger candidate. Mr. Rhone is a Democrat and "has it in" for some prominent democratic leaders, and proposes to pay off a few political scores this year."

—They have a queer way of wrecking trains in Tyrone. They run them off the railroad track, send one up through a man's house and chuck the other down through the roof, demolishing house and furniture and scaring the life almost out of the inmates. Such was the way it was done to the house of Joseph Parks, anyway.

THE LOBSTER AND THE LOBSTER POT.

A lobster pot is a simple enough trap. It looks like an immense bird cage, made of wooden slats. Both ends are covered with loose, strong netting, made from tar rope. There is a hole in the middle of each net. The trap is sunk to the bottom by being weighted with stones, and lies on the bottom in a horizontal position. Its location is indicated by a buoy attached to it by ropes, A cod's head or other tempting bait, is placed inside the pot, made stationery by being fastened on hooks. This soon attracts the lobster, and he reconnoitres about the pot to see how he may get at the aggravating morsel. In his skirmishing he discovers the opening in the netting at the end of the trap, and he turns and backs himself through it. According to all observant lobster fishermen, the lobster no sooner gets inside than he becomes aware that he is in trouble. He loses all desire to sample the bait that tempted him to get in the scrape which he somehow or other has suddenly realized that he is in. He moves about in the trap in an agitated manner looking for a way to get out, just as eagerly as he a few minutes before sought for an opening to get in. So agitated is he that he forgets that his best pedestrian work is accomplished backward and he does not try to back out of the hole as he came in, but exerts himself to his utmost to get out head first, a feat his enormous claws makes inpossible. But, as lobstermen say, let his crazed lobster be released from the pot, he will no sooner be out than the bait inside tempts him again, and he once more seeks for a way to get in and size it, finds the way as before, backs in, is immediately panic stricken again, and renews his frantic endeavors to escape again. No matter how many times the lobster might be let out, he would just as often set to work to become a prisoner again. That lobsters are seized with panic as soon as they find themselves in a trap is evident from the fact that although as many as twenty may be found in a pot when it is taken up, the bait will seldom, if ever, show any sign of having been touched by any of them. One of these pots would be no obstacle to the lobster's freedom if it only knew its power, but half a dozen lobsters could smash a pot to pieces in a twinkling, or one sweep of a single lobster's claws would tear the tarred rope netting from the trap as if it had been gauze.—New York Sun.

Waked up Effectually.

A lethargic, dormant condition of the liver is hardly to be overcome with drastic cathartics and nauseous cholagogues. A gentler, pleasanter and far more effective means exists of arousing the organ when somnolent. This is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, vouched for by the medical fraternity, tested by the public for many years. A resumption by the billary organ of its secretive function, with the activity attendant up on health, a return to regularity of the bowels, and a renewal of digestion, are the no less happy and certain results of using the Bitters systematically. Its laxative effective is never painful and drenching, its tendency being rather to perpetuate regularity than to produce a copious action. Malaria, nervousness debility, kidney troubles and neuralgia it subdues effectually.

John ! John ! Wake up !

What's the matter Maria ?

I hear a noise in the kitchen. Go down quick and see what it is. May be it's a burglar.

Mrs. Billus, what do you consider the actual cash value of the silver and plated ware and other stealable articles in the kitchen ?

There's $10 worth at the very least.

And do you suppose madam, I am going to run the risk of meeting an armed burglar for a pitiful, beggarly, dad-dinged $10, madam ?

(Angrily)—Why not, John Billus ? Isn't your life insured for $5,000 ?

THE OLD HERO IS DEAD

Gen. George Crook Suddenly Stricken in a Hotel Parlor.

A BRAVE INDIAN FIGHTER.

The First Man That Struck Terror to the Hearts of the Savage Apache Tribe. The Subduer of the Dreaded Sioux Savages—His Life.

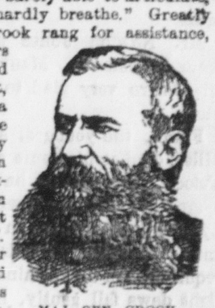
CHICAGO, March 22.—Gen. George Crook died suddenly in his parlor at the Grand Pacific hotel, shortly after 7 o'clock Friday morning, but the officials were so paralyzed by the unexpected event and so much occupied in ministering to the stricken widow that it was nearly two hours later before word was sent to army headquarters and the news became current on the streets.

The general occupied a box at the Columbia theatre, and witnessed Mr. Manfield's portrayal of the dual role of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. He returned to the hotel shortly after 11 o'clock, and retired apparently in the best of health and spirits. His suite comprised a parlor and two sleeping rooms on the third floor, the third room being occupied by Mrs. Reed, of Oakland, Md., a sister to Mrs. Crook, and who has been visiting them this winter.

His Last Words.

Gen. Crook arose about half past 6, and after partially dressing himself entered the parlor where, as was his wont, he commenced to exercise with dumbbells. About fifteen minutes later his wife, who was attiring herself in the adjoining room, heard him call in a faint voice, "Mary, Mary!"

Upon responding she found the general reclining upon the sofa and evidently in pain. His hands were pressed over his heart, and he was barely able to articulate, "Mary, I can hardly breathe." Greatly alarmed, Mrs. Crook rang for assistance, and messengers were dispatched for Dr. Hurlburt, whose office is a block away. The physician quickly responded, but on his arrival expressed the opinion that the patient was beyond relief. Five minutes later Gen. Crook passed away as quietly as a sleeping babe.



MAJ. GEN. CROOK.

Mrs. Crook was overwhelmed by the terrible event, and her grief was pitiable to witness. The remains were removed to the bed which he had left but a few hours before.

His Career.

The most vigorous and successful Indian fighter in the United States army is dead. The first name that the Apache learned to dread was that of George Crook. Born in Ohio, near Dayton, Sept. 8, 1828, Cadet Crook graduated from the Military academy at West Point in the class of '52. He was immediately assigned as second lieutenant to the Fourth infantry, then stationed on the Pacific coast. Here he had the advantage of active frontier service till the outbreak of the civil war in 1861. His principal Indian fighting at that time was in the Rogue and Pitt rivers campaigns of 1856-57.

He had attained his captaincy when he returned east to take command of the Thirty-sixth Ohio volunteers. His first service was in West Virginia, where he distinguished himself by his activity in that broken and difficult country. Thence he was transferred to Maryland and Virginia, attracting attention by his vigor and celerity, which led to his appointment to the command of the Second cavalry division in the Army of the Tennessee, July, 1863.

The Apaches Conquered.

Crook was now in the arm of the service to which he naturally belonged and in a command that proved his quality. He quickly gained the confidence of his commanders, and after defeating Wheeler's Confederate cavalry in the west he returned to West Virginia to harass the Confederacy with raids. Thence he joined Sheridan in the final campaign of the war; and in all that series of brilliant cavalry operations Sheridan had no more efficient lieutenant than Gen. Crook.

After holding quieter commands Gen. Crook was dispatched in 1872 to Arizona to settle the Apache question, which had been the chief problem of Pacific department commanders since 1848. He settled it, and settled it to stay. Probably no exploit stands at the credit of the United States cavalry so arduous as Gen. Crook's mountain campaign against the Apaches. At its end both horses and men were worn out, but the Apache was worn out for good.

The Sioux Savages.

Later, in 1875, the Sioux troubles presented themselves for settlement, and the selection of a commander to settle them fell naturally on Gen. Crook. He inflicted severe blows on the Indians at Powder and Tongue rivers. The savages withdrew to make their successful attack on the gallant Custer. Crook received re-enforcements and pursued them so vigorously that by May, 1877, he brought them to submission.

Trouble in Arizona called Gen. Crook thither again in 1883. On this occasion he captured the whole band or tribe of Chiricahuas. He next reduced them to the habit of industry, and within three years had them and neighboring bands self supporting. The army has no more energetic officer than the deceased general, nor, unless perhaps in the person of Gen. Miles, any other officer of rank who can be named in competition with him as an Indian fighter.

With Revolvers and Winchesters.

DENVER, March 22.—The trouble between the saloonists and the second burning of Mayor Stockbridge's residence continue to cause intense excitement in Colorado City. Many of the citizens of that place paraded the streets armed with revolvers and Winchesters, prepared to string up to a telegraph pole the first man caught setting fire to another house.

Claassen Held.

NEW YORK, March 22.—The examination of Gen. Claassen, ex-president of the Sixth National bank, was concluded before United States Commissioner Shields. Counsel on both sides agreed to let the case rest on the evidence introduced, and the accused was held for the action of the United States grand jury.

Three Hundred Massacred.

LISBON, March 22.—Advices from Quilimore, East Africa, are that a Portuguese customs official and his escort of 300 natives have been massacred near Lake Nyassa.

How Would it work in Bellefonte.

In Missouri they have introduced hugging societies to swell the church treasury and a Missouri paper gives the following scale of prices: Girls under sixteen, 15 cents for a hug of two minutes, or 10 cents for a short squeeze from sixteen to twenty 50 cents; from twenty to twenty-five, 75 cents; school marms, 40 cents; another man's wife, $1; widows, according to looks from 10 cents to $3; old maids, 3 cents a piece or two for a nickel, and not any limit of time. Preachers are not charged. Editors pay in advertisements, but are not allowed to participate until everybody else has gotten through, and even then they are not allowed to squeeze anything but old maids and school marms. Missouri is a live place and is always looking out to the best interest of their churches, and this is a good cheap way of raising money. It might be practiced even in this clime, but the newspaper force might possibly raise an objection.

M. E. Church Sociable.

This Thursday evening, March 27th, the ladies of the M. E. church will hold a sociable at the residence of Mr. F W Crider, on Linn street. The ladies will have prepared, not only a bounteous supply of good refreshments, etc., but have decided to introduce several new innovations in way of amusement—something entirely new, original and novel, and every person going there cannot fail to enjoy themselves beyond description. We would advise all our readers to go and see, hear and eat.

—"Why don't you run a newspaper like that?" a grocery merchant in a country town said to his editor, throwing out a Chicago daily, "For the reason you don't run a grocery like that," the editor replied, turning to a five column advertisement of a Chicago house, showing a twelve story building. The grocer looked attentively at the advertisement and the picture for a moment and then said: "I never looked at it in that way before."

What Joseph W. Furey Observed and Heard to Write About.

The editor of the Lock Haven Democrat spent a few days in Bellefonte and on his return home writes as follows:

Col. Jack Spangler, one of the leading members of the bar of Centre county, is to be married on the 25th instant to Mrs. Lida W. Holliday, which is the consummation of a love affair begun years ago when the colonel was a student at Dickinson Seminary. But they drifted apart in some way and the lady married. Now the old love has reasserted itself and the the affection of their more youthful days is to be gratified. Col. Spangler is a fine looking and still young man of about forty. His is to be bride is the daughter of the late David M. Wagner, and has long enjoyed the distinction of being one of the finest looking ladies in Bellefonte. Let the bells ring merrily.

Mine host Brandon, of the Brockerhoff House, which by the way is one of the finest and best in this section of the State, is organizing an encampment of the "Union Veteran Legion," membership in which demands that the applicant shall have served two consecutive years in the army during the rebellion, prior to the days of draft and bounties. Mr. B. is meeting with the most encouraging success and already has a long list of members. Of course all wounded soldiers are made members without question. Mr. Brandon is one of the most active business men in Bellefonte, keeps an elegant hotel and is as full of hospitality and geniality as the bee hive with honey.

The Bellefonte band, which has become one of the best musical organizations in the State, will be here in May at the head of Constans Commandery," Knights Templar. They have secured quarters at the Keating House and propose to make the Lock Haven atmosphere, during their stay here, the receptacle of sounds to which the ravished ear will stop to listen.

The Centre County Republican Convention for the purpose of electing delegates to the State convention to nominate a candidate for Governor, will be held on the 31st day of the present month. The county committee met there yesterday and passed strong resolutions endorsing the most popular Republican candidate, General D. H. Hastings.

The people are eagerly anticipating the erection of the Garman Opera House, as they feel certain that Bellefonte will then become a genuine show town.

Several persons have latterly gone to Seattle, State of Washington, from the old borough.

Wilson Moore, of Missoula, Montana, has been tarrying in Bellefonte since August last: Report has it that he will take back to the West with him a Centre Hall lady as his wife.

There is more talk than cider over the so-called attack on the Centre county court by the Presbyterian pastor. It is nothing very serious.

An Interesting Document.

The following from the Lock Haven Express is interesting as well to Centre county people:

Among the old documents and records in the office of the Prothonotary of this county, there are none more interesting to a person searching for historical information than the first docket in which the court proceedings were recorded. The first term was held on the 16th day of December, A. D., 1839. Hon Thomas Burnside was president judge, with Hon. John Fleming and Hon. George Crawford as associate judges. Philip Krebs was the Prothonotary. At that term of the court the following attorneys were admitted to practice in the several courts of Clinton county;

Francis C Campbell, John Blanchard Joseph B Anthony, Anson V Parsons, H E McAllister, Andrew G Curtin, Robert Fleming, James Gamble, H M Bliss, James Armstrong, Henry D Ellis, Bond Valentine, James McManus, Jas. T Hale, James Burnside, John Hoffman William M Patterson, Theodore Friend, F A Gwenner, Richard Williams. During the year 1840 the following attorneys were admitted to practice: Richard Williams, Adolphus D Wilson, George W Carskaddon, J W Maynard, H T Beardsley and Levi A Mackey.

The docket in which the records of the first court were recorded was not a large book, yet it was used for three years. Of the attorneys who practiced in Clinton county courts at the organization of the county, none are seen at the bar at the present time.

Water Spouts.

Our distinguished contemporary, the Bellefonte DAILY NEWS, speaks of "the marriage obsequies," and so on. Now what in the name of Samhill are marriage obsequies. The NEWS should not cultivate literary distemper.—Williamsport Gazette & Bulletin.

Chestnuts, Spouty; chestnuts. Why thats an old joke cut out of the Altoona Mirror some time last June—about the time of that tremendous water spout in Altoona. Don't you remember, brother Zell?

One Thousand Dollars Bail.

Alfred Davis, who was arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the robbery of Budinger's store at Snow Shoe, was given a hearing on Friday morning. About a half dozen witnesses were called and evidence against him was rather damaging, for the robbery of a recent date, while it was conclusively proven that he was one of a party that broke into and robbed the same store in November last. Two revolvers that were stolen at that time were found in the garret of his home and a large box of men's caps were also found there. After hearing all the evidence it was decided to hold him for trial at the next term of court or release him on $1000 bail, not being able to give bail he was sent back to jail.

One of the persons who was instrumental in bringing this man to arrest was Mr. F P Day, a Pinkerton detective from Philadelphia, who also appeared and gave in evidence at the preliminary hearing Friday. Mr. Day is a man of unlimited experience and keen foresight. It was he that entrapped "Red Nosed Mike," the Italian who killed paymaster McClure and stabbed boss Flannigan. Mr. Day, who is also an Italian, went to Poughkeepsie and solicited work in the same gang of men that Mike was in. He succeeded in obtaining it, and by his cunning and crafty ways, got into the entire confidence of "Red Nose" and learned the entire story of that horrible and cold-blooded tragedy, although it took him eight months to complete the job. He induced Mike to go with him to Wilkesbarre to get a job and when they arrived at Broad street station, Philadelphia, both were arrested. Day was, of course, bailed out and Mike never knew he had been tricked until Day appeared on the stand as a witness against him when he received his trial and conviction.

The M E Conference.

CARLISLE, Pa., March 21.—Bishop Foster, of Boston, opened the third day's session of the Central Pennsylvania Methodist Episcopal Conference in the Bosler Memorial Hall, Dickinson College, this morning. The attendance was quite large. Very little business was transacted. Maps of the noted Cumberland valley were distributed to the ministers on the part of the Cumberland Valley railroad.

Dr. Keynett made a statement in reference to church extension. Dr. Buckley, editor of the New York Christian Advocate spoke of his paper and addresses were made by Bishop Bowman, Dr. Hunt, of New York, and Dr. Breckenridge, representing Brooklyn Methodist Hospital, of the work of that institution.

Quite a discussion took place lasting two hours on the proposed change of, laity representation at the General Conference. Stirring speeches were made by Rev. Gray, Ferguson, Riddle, Lloyd, Houck, Evans, Swallow and Monroe. The roll was called and a vote taken on the question which resulted as follows: For the change 31; against the change 144.

Nominations were made in open conference for delegates to Ecclesiastical Convention and conference then adjourned until 2 p. m.

Will Visit in Bellefonte.

The Lock Haven Express says: "Official announcement has been received at this office that the great Forepaugh show will soon visit Williamsport and Bellefonte and give Lock Haven the go by. Why are things thusly? Lock Haven is a far better show town than Bellefonte and the management of the "greatest show on earth" will find that they have made a mistake. The steady growth of this city has taken up every available place within the city limits large enough on which the show could exhibit and we presume that is the reason for skipping Lock Haven. Free passes and free tickets will enable the newspaper fraternity to witness the show in either place without cost, but how about the others? Will they patronize the excursion trains which will be run in both directions from this place? We think not."

Death of Christian Mott.

From Friday's L. E. DEMOCRAT.

Christian Mott, of Mill Hall, an employee of the Mann axe works there, died in Bellefonte this morning of axemaker's consumption, a disease to which axemakers are liable from the dust off their grindstones and which usually does its work quickly. The deceased, who was about 34 years old, had gone to his parents home at Roopsburg, near Bellefonte, in the hope of improvement, but, as the sequel has proved, in vain. Mr. Mott has left a wife and three children, and four sisters in this city, namely: Mrs Fred Kemmerer, Mrs. Fred Brown, Mrs. William Haviland and Miss Barbara Mott.

Barn Burned.

On Tuesday night, about eleven o'clock, a large barn belonging to Mr. G W Lyon, near Pennsylvania Furnace, caught fire and was burned to the ground. About 200 bushels of grain and 100 tons of hay were destroyed. There was no live stock in the barn at the time. Henry Elder, who was about to occupy the place as a tenant had, the previous day, placed 200 bushels of corn in the barn, this was also destroyed. There was no insurance. The fire is thought to have been caused by a tramp who had gone into the building to spend the night, and lighting a match to take, it is supposed, a view of his surroundings, had accidentally set fire to some loose straw lying on the floor.

A Married Woman Suicides.

Mrs. Martha M. Carpenter aged 64 years, wife of Jesse Carpenter, of Williamsport committed suicide yesterday by hanging herself with a rope in an outhouse in the rear of her home. A Great Southern University.

Bluffton, Alabama, makes the munificent gift of $500,000 to the Methodist Episcopal Church for the location of the educational institution known as the University of the Southland. Rev. C L Mann, D D., who has it in charge, says that $1,500,000 will be expended on the main building, which will be 300 feet by 300 feet and seven stories in height, with an inner court 200 feet square. The material to be used is white marble granite and sandstone. Ground will be broken on April 15; and work on the building pushed rapidly.

—Some time ago James Davis, brakeman on Bald Eagle Valley local, hurt his right hand badly and he had just recovered from the injury, when yesterday he was unfortunate again, his left hand being the injured member on this occasion. At Unionville, while making a coupling, he had his left thumb crushed so badly that it had to be amputated.

—It is said that at an expense of $25,000 the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has bought a plant at Mifflin and will begin the manufacture of ice. The company uses 40,000 tons of ice each year, and if experiment establishes the fact that it will be cheaper to manufacture ice than to buy it an extensive factory will be constructed for the purpose.

Supper and Festival.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A will give a supper and festival in the Y. M. C. A. rooms on the evening of the first Thursday after Easter. The object of this is to raise money to help pay off the present indebtedness of the association, and with such a worthy object in view it certainly should be encouraged by liberal patronage. Remember the day and date as above given.

JEWELS AND LACES.

"Oh, girl with the jewelled fingers,
Oh, girl with the laces rare!"

What are your jewels and what are your laces worth to you if, from undergoing the trying ordeals which fashionable society imposes on its devotees, enough to test the physical strength and endurance of the most robust, you break down, lose your health and become a physical wreck, as thousands do from such causes?

Under such circumstances you would willingly give all your jewels and all your laces to regain lost health. This you can do if you will but resort to the use of that great restorative known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Thousands of grateful women bless the day it was made known to them.

Local Department.

—Court again this week.

—The new moon looks nice. Wonder if it will bring us good weather.

—Why is a kiss like a sermon? It requires two heads and an application to finish it properly.

Miss Mary Mitchell, of Howard, is visiting the families of J. W. Cooke and Sheriff Robert Cooke, in this place.

—Lock Haven wants a Young Men's Christian Association. Goodness knows it needs one bad enough.

—One week from Tuesday and that biggest of all fools—the April fool—will be on deck for twenty-four hours.

—The matter of general iron ore mining in Bald Eagle Valley will be the main business in the near future.

—Loeb's are still selling goods as fast as possible and yet it seems as if they would never get their store emptied.

—Commissioner Decker feels sort of queer this week, the Centre Reporter had nothing to say about him last Thursday.

—We respectfully invite the attention of our readers to the article on first page of to-day's paper entitled "Bridges and State Tax."

—A normal and classical school is to be opened at Zion, this county, under the superintendence of Prof. S. H. Ditzel, of Lancaster, Pa.

—Two boys were playing burglar in Altoona, when one boy shot the other one. It was a good way to get rid of the burglar but a little hard on the boy.

—A subscriber sends us the following as a longer word than the one published on Saturday: Transubmagnificandubandancielitimogany. Who knows of a bigger one?

—Mr. William R Way and daughter of Stormstown, were in Bellefonte Tuesday and are taking in the sights of the county seat. They did not forget to visit this office.

—Mr. and Mrs. David Sparr, of Boalsburg, have kindly remembered the Reformed church at that place by presenting it with a fine, extra finish, $90 Bailey reflector, and the people very much appreciate their kindness.

—Man is a harvester. He begins life at the cradle; learns to handle the fork, often has rakish ways and sows wild oats; threshes his way through the world and when he arrives at the sere and yellow leaf, time mows him down and his remains are planted on the hillside.

—Mr. Albert Lucas moved Tuesday from north Allegheny street to out on Willow Bank. Mr. R. Hamill Boal has already commenced moving from East Lamb to Thomas street. Numerous other flittings are daily seen and it went be many days more until the town will be alive with them.

—Laurence Hutton will contribute to the number of Harper's Bazar to be published March 28th an article on "The First American Society Play," accompanied with a portrait of the dramatic author and distinguished actress of the period to which he refers, Anna Cora Ritchie Mowatt. The same number will contain a portrait of Mrs. Gladstone, together with a sketch of her by R. Donald.

—Superintendent of water works, Mr. Samuel Rhine, informs us that in supplying the water for the fire on Sunday night he had only a three inch feed pipe to work on and with that was able to supply three separate three inch hose fed from three fire plugs. The good flow of water was generally spoken of by all present and this is but one more proof of the fitness of Mr. Rhine for the position he occupies.

—Clinton county is advertising for a loan of $25,000. The money is needed for the rebuilding of bridges washed away by the big flood, and for restoring and repairing other county property. The commissioners offer to issue 4 per cent. bonds to run from fifteen to twenty years. There is only one thing that keeps us from furnishing the desired amount and that is that it is wanted by the first of April.

—Saturday afternoon the final arrangements were made in securing hotel accommodations for Constans Commandery, Knights Templar, No. 33, of Bellefonte, during their visit to Lock Haven, next May. The commandery will be located at the Keating House, on Vesper street. Constans Commandery will come to the Grand Annual Conclave forty strong and will be accompanied by a band of twenty-two pieces.

—The members of the Logan Hose Company are under many obligations and hereby return their sincere thanks for the kind hospitality extended to them by Col. Amos Mullen and wife and Miss Ellen Woods, who, after the fire on Sunday evening invited the boys all in and generously tendered them an apetizing and substantial lunch. Such acts are characteristic of the Colonel and the "fire laddies" will not soon forget his kindness.

THE DESTROYING FLAMES.

The Large Frame House on Bishop Street Owned by V Bauer, Jr., Completely Gutted.

On Sunday evening about half past eight o'clock the alarm of fire was sounded. Everybody ran but the absence of light almost made it seem like an April fool business. However the drift of the people all seemed toward Bishop street and thither everybody went. It was not until on that thoroughfare that the exact location of the fire was determined.

The fire is believed to have started from the flue. There was a double roof on the house and it was between these two roofs that the flames were first discovered. An alarm was at once sounded but, the house, being all frame, old and very combustible, it was impossible to do any more than confine the flames to that building. The inside of the house is a total wreck. The lower part is not badly burned but entirely destroyed so far as water can destroy.

The house was occupied in the eastern end by V. Bauer, Jr., in the middle by Ollie Miller and the western end had been occupied by Mr. Stott but he had just moved out several days ago. Bauer lost considerable of his furniture but Miller succeded in saving the most of his.

The loss on the building and his furniture to V. Bauer, Jr., will be about $3,000, on which there is $2,100 insurance—$1,800 on the house and $300 on the furniture. The loss on Miller's furniture will be complete as he had no insurance.

The wind last night blew quite loud and it was fortunate the firemen got the flames under control when they did or the adjoining house, belonging to the Joseph Parson's estate would have gone too. The prompt efforts of the firemen however, averted this disaster.

NOTES.

Owing to the fact that it has been quite a while since there has been a fire in Bellefonte, when the alarm was sounded Sunday evening, it seemed as if everybody went to the fire, as the street was crowded.

Isn't it funny that a man will take a lantern to hunt a fire? and yet that is what fireman John Laurie did last night.

Water was plenty and the flow was good and strong and it would have been a very large fire that the boys could not have downed last night.

It is said of one man in particular that he got so full of water or smoke (or something else) that he had to be carried home: Poor fellow.

The M. E. Conference.

At Friday's session of the M. E. Conference, at Carlisle, Rev. Dr. Kynett, Secretary of the Board of Church Extension, was presented and told the conference that the General Committee would appropriate $5000 this year to the Church. The Board of Church Extension has received $53,000 in contributions, but has paid the past year $17,674 to churches and has made loans aggregating $3000; the Board has aided directly seventy-seven churches of the Central Pennsylvania Conference, and of the $5000 appropriation it desired to devote $1000 to the churches of this conference and the remaining $4000 to churches on the frontier. When he ended his statistical talk, Dr. Kynett said emphatically that the churches had made many and grievous mistakes, and advised them, in the future, to conform more with the laws of the State of Pennsylvania than they have hitherto done. By a lack of knowledge of the State laws they have often been deprived of church property, simply because the deeds were worthless, which, if they had been drawn up in a business-like and legal manner, would have been valid. The Church by this, said the speaker, has not only lost her rightful property, but has, though unintentionally, deprived creditors of their just bills.

This closed the miscellaneous business and the question which was yesterday made the order of the day was brought up.

LAY REPRESENTATION.

The question was the same which has wrought so much trouble in all Pennsylvania conferences, and provides a change in the Church discipline of 1888, that shall allow the laity to have an equalization of representative delegates in the General Conference along with the clergy The question, before its decision, created a great deal of discussion, and some of the ministers waxed so warm in their speeches that even some parliamentary rules were disregarded.

Dr. Gray, of the Williamsport Methodist Seminary, objected to the passage of the proposition of equalization, because he did not believe it was in harmony with the genius and qualities of the Methodist Church. It is proposed by this proposition, he said, to do indirectly by the conference in 1888. He did not think the number of representation of the ministry should be equaled by the lay delegates, as many questions come up before the conferences which laymen as a rule will be unable to cope with.

Rev. W A Houck was in favor of the passage of the equalization papers. He thought the majority of Methodists should at least be fairly represented and since they have been represented some wise rules have been made. "As the General Conference now stands, I regard it as the greatest legislative monstrosity in the United States," he said.

Rev. Mr. Swallow, of Harrisburg, said that if the laity wanted this representation let them have it, but he didn't think they were anxious. "We can't have exact equality, and I think at present the power of the two orders is about equal."

Rev. Dr. Monroe, of Altoona, opposed the adoption of the equalization paper on the ground that the major portion of the work at the General Conference is done in committee, and for a week or ten days after the convening of the Conference very little work has been done by the body. This being the case, the laymen generally left before Conference adjourned, and in two instances he knew of Conferences which broke up for this reason and left a great deal of unfinished business. The speaker then said if the lay-delegates would attend until Conference ended, he would be in favor of the change.

THE PROPOSITION VOTED DOWN.

Conference called for the vote. The question of equalization of the lay delegates with the clerical was then put. Thirty-one votes were cast for and one hundred and forty-four against it. There were a great many who did not vote at all.

Was It Murder?

Saturday's L H Democrat,

William G Newberry died this morning about 2 o'clock, at the residence of his son James, on Jessamine street, this city. The cause of his death is supposed to be injuries received from blows struck by Charles Mosher on Thursday night at Lehman's hotel. There were a number of bruises on his head and on his body and this morning previous to his death blood and water are said to have run out of his mouth. The deceased yesterday morning complained of sickness and headache, did not get up, and in the afternoon Dr. Hayes was sent for, made an examination and left a prescription. The family did not anticipate a serious result, but death's coming was swift and sudden.

What Was Done On the Fourth Day of the M. E. Conference.

The presiding officer announced that nominations for delegates to the Ecumenical Council were in order, and, on motion of Dr. Houck, of Bellefonte, it was ordered that the nomination should be conducted in the usual manner of electing delegates to any Conference or council. The ballot was called for and Revs. Houck, Ferguson, Feight and Allewein were appointed tellers to make the count. Drs. Gray and Hamlin were nominated ministerial delegates and T H Murray and John Patton lay delegates. On motion the nominations were confirmed.

THE PENNSYLVANIA BIBLE SOCIETY.

While the ballots were being collected Rev. Dr. Morrow, secretary of the Pennsylvania Bible Society, was announced and made a few remarks. He stated that the British Society had, since its existence begun, distributed 110,000,000 Bibles, and the American society, though only organized in 1853, has since that time distributed 53,000,000. Until 1800 the Bible was only printed in fifty languages, but now the Old and New Testaments are printed in 300 tongues. The work of the Bible Society in Pennsylvania has been so successful that it is now making grants to all charitable institutions, and it is the intention of this society to put a bible under every roof in Pennsylvania.

After the Johnstown flood 2000 Bibles were given to the sufferers and churches and Sunday schools of the place. It required four men to visit the families in all the flood districts in the State.

Dr. Freeman, the secretary of the Sunday school and tract society work, reported 26,000 Sabbath schools, with 280,000 officers and teachers, and 2,200,000 scholars. This showed an increase during the year of 735 scholars, or 14 each week.

DISCIPLINARY QUESTIONS.

Disciplinary questions were brought up as, "What local preachers have been elected deacons?" Altoona district, none; Danville district, none; Harrisburg district, James T Richardson, recommended by the committee, having passed a satisfactory examination. Elected to deacons orders: Juniata district, none; Williamsport district, none. In regard to local elders: Altoona district, J C Young, recommended and elected; Danville district, none; Harrisburg district Lyman J Mutchmore, recommended by the committee and elected to the local elders' orders. On motion it was ordered that all applicants who desire to become local preachers must pass the prescribed examination.

MONDAY'S SESSION.

The Central Pennsylvania Methodist Episcopal Conference opened its session here this morning with devotional services led by Rev. I B Mann, after which Bishop Foster presided. The report of Board of Stewards was read and adopted. Speeches were made by Rev. William Riddle and others on the resolution in reference to missionary collections. The resolution not adopted, the question of the time and place for the meeting of the next conference, Sunbury, Mt. Carmel and York, were named. After several speeches in advocacy of the different cities, Sunbury was selected as the place, and March next as the time. The thanks of the conference were tendered the places where the conference had been invited to sit. Dr. Leonard spoke in the interest of missionary work, and Dr. Van Metor, who represented the Woman's College of Baltimore, spoke on the work of that institution. Rev. Dr. Evans, of Carlisle, delivered an address in the interest of Dickinson College and especially the new Methodist church now in course of erection, and asked the ministers to help them. About $1,800 was subscribed, after which the Conference adjourned until this afternoon.

The Berlin Conference.

It is reported from Berlin that the labor conference has already agreed upon the following: Only males over fourteen years of age shall be employed in mines; female labor underground shall not be employed; children's labor in factories must depend upon their completion of the prescribed school course; the employment at night of persons under fourteen years of age is prohibited; or, where permitted, only six hours of labor out of the twenty-four, with a half hour interval, shall be required; the employment of children in unhealthy and dangerous trades is prohibited; Sunday shall be a day of rest in all employments except those in which work is necessary for the continuity of production or which can proceed only at certain intervals.—Surely the world moves in intelligence.

—Those who have heretofore had any skeptical views about the erection of the Garman Opera house will now have them all dispelled if they go to the proposed site of that building. Men aref now busily engaged digging out the foundation and it is the intention of Mr. Garman to push the work rapidly to completion.

—Subscribers who will move on April first should notify us promptly of their change of residence and they never will be missed.

It was to attend court that he came to Bellefonte.

Ex-Governor Andrew G. Curtin, has for some time back been confined at the Arlington Hotel Washington, D. C., because of feeble health. The old "War Governor," even at his advanced age, seems reluctant to entirely forsake the ground on which many years of his active life was spent and where he fought and won many hard-earned battles for his nation and people.

Mr. Nissley, Editor of the Tyrone Times, took a run to Bellefonte on Friday afternoon and came rushing into the NEWS' sanctum in true western style and called for the fighting editor, at the same time introducing himself as the heavy-weight, champion knocker of that present bright and newsy paper that now is for Delamater, though, by way of variety, it eulogizes the several aspirants for gubernatorial honors. Of course there was a general set-to, in the same style that the country youth imagines the editors knock down each other, judging from the way they "go for" one another in their papers. But, we are glad to say, when the conflict was over there had been no blood spilt, and when the time for parting came the hand shake was as warm and hearty as could be. All in all we rather like to be taken in that kind of a style and brother Nissley cannot drop in on us too often

New Saw Mill.

In addition to the many duties of the Register and Recorder's office, the occupants of the same have rigged up a saw mill in the adjoining vault and they are now prepared to do all kinds of sawing cheap, for cash in advance. All experienced workmen are employed in the operation of the mill and best of work guaranteed or money refunded. Patronage solicited and inspection invited. The mill can be seen in operation whenever there is nothing else to do in the office.

THE APPOINTMENTS MADE,

The Closing Acts of the M E Conference at Carlisle—Where Preachers Now Go.

The Monday afternoon session of conference was entirely taken up by hearing the reports of the different committees, the most of which were as follows:

The Committee on Freedman's Aid recommended that they be upheld by the Conference and that subscriptions be sent to aid in its work. This was not adopted and a motion was made to reconsider the report. This was also lost. The report was again brought up and after some discussion was adopted.

On district records the committee reported that the records in the Altoona district were correct and that female class leaders were eligible to become members of a district conference.

The Committee on Sunday schools reported that the Sunday school work was progressing, and that in the majority of cases the teachers are zealous and painstaking. The report contained a clause recommending that an appointment of $1500 be given throughout the district, and that Conference make an earnest effort to procure the same. It also recommended that the Sunday schools act as missionary societies, and that the catechism of the Methodist Episcopal Church be introduced and taught in them. After the appointment clause had been stricken out the report was adopted.

The Educational Committee in its report stated that education was vitally connected with all interests of the Methodist Church. The ministers must urge the necessity for a more ample endowment for Methodist institutions of learning, and pledge themselves to do all in their power to keep their treasuries filled.

The report of the committee on Prohibition and Sabbath Observance, passed through the Conference without a dissenting voice. The report was that the liquor traffic was the greatest existing evil and obsticle to society, and that it recognizes the church and gospel as its open enemy. It deserves no quarter from either God or man. By the report, politicians and newspapers were to some extent denounced, and it was stated that a minister who votes for a candidate of a party which advocates license, votes indirectly for license itself. The committee further suggested that April 27th be devoted to preaching against the liquor traffic throughout the limits of the Conference. The convention then adjourned and went into secret session.

At night an anniversary for veteran ministers was held, at which a number of addresses were made by the older ministers of the Conference.
